1. The Story of the year

It was 1971 – and they came again to Northside

Chapter one

In the beginning...

On August 27 the day dawned brightly. It dawned on a campus, a cluster of sprawling red buildings and 1,635 students who brought life into those buildings to begin another year at Northside. They came with many different ideas and for many different reasons. Some didn't like the way things were, some loved the way things were, some couldn't care less how things were. Some came for fun, some came for an education, some came because they simply couldn't stand to be at home. But with whatever ideas and for whatever reasons they came, they all came to the same place. And Northside again became the center of action, hope and conflict for those who called it theirs.

Before two weeks were over, their number had swelled to 1,725 and remained fairly stable. Five hundred forty-seven sophomores enrolled, cautiously observing their new surroundings. Five hundred seventy-nine seniors returned, celebrating their final year as Grizzlies. But the juniors led the count with 598 students, now veterans of Northside. The year was under way.

Wheels begin to roll in pre-school days

Yet any year's beginning is only a result of the work of the past. 1971-72 Grizzlies came in cars washed by the Junior Council to a building readied by the custodial staff. They picked up schedule cards printed by the print shop and prepared by the office workers while their pictures were taken by photographers from the journalism department. The night before, they watched the football team, listened to the band and yelled along with the cheerleaders, all of whom had practiced during the summer. Yes, a year begins long before the first bell rings in late August.

The only way to go is up!

Northside is just a name. The Northside campus is just a tract of land. The Northside buildings, stadium and field house are just construction jobs. But the 1,700 individuals who come to Northside High School each day put meaning into the name, bring color and action onto the campus and create the excitement that only life can create within the buildings. For Northside is people. It is people who are all different and all distinctly themselves, yet are all faced with dealing with what they have. Northside is people who know there will be only one 1971-72 school year and if they are going to do anything with it, they will have to do it now. Northside is people who are ready to roll, ready to change what they don't like, and ready to stand for what they believe. –and that the only way to go is up.

"This is a special year," student body president Lane Barker said at her installation. "There will never be another exactly like it."

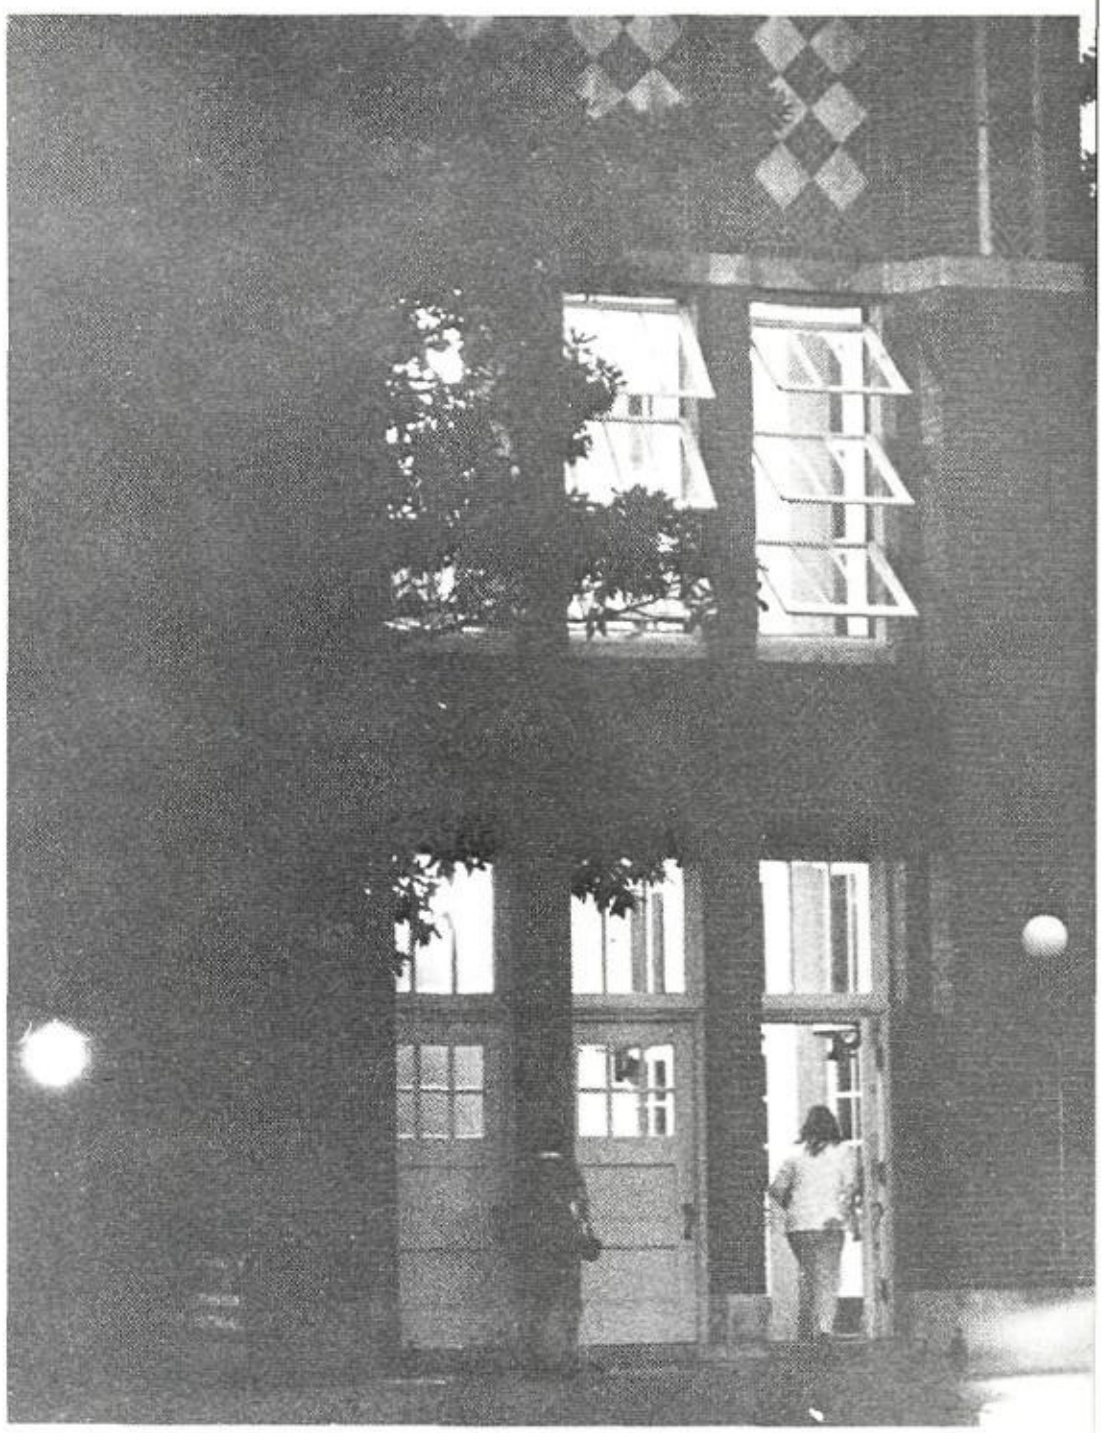
Chapter two

Signs of the times...

"Sign, sign, everywhere a sign" . . and the signs said it was a year on the move. Wheels are known for making motion and those who came were the wheels of Northside, making it move, making it alive. Mark them "in a hurry" because that was the style of the times, their style, their times. It was a year with an identity all its own, with an outlook of "understand and accept" which past years never knew. The year and the people, perpetuated by sincere concern and involvement, were distinguishable by their pride in being number one, in being a Northside Grizzly, in being themselves. Taking the time to have fun and be happy was their way of life. This was '72, this was Northside, this was them and this was their America. The signs of the times were good signs.

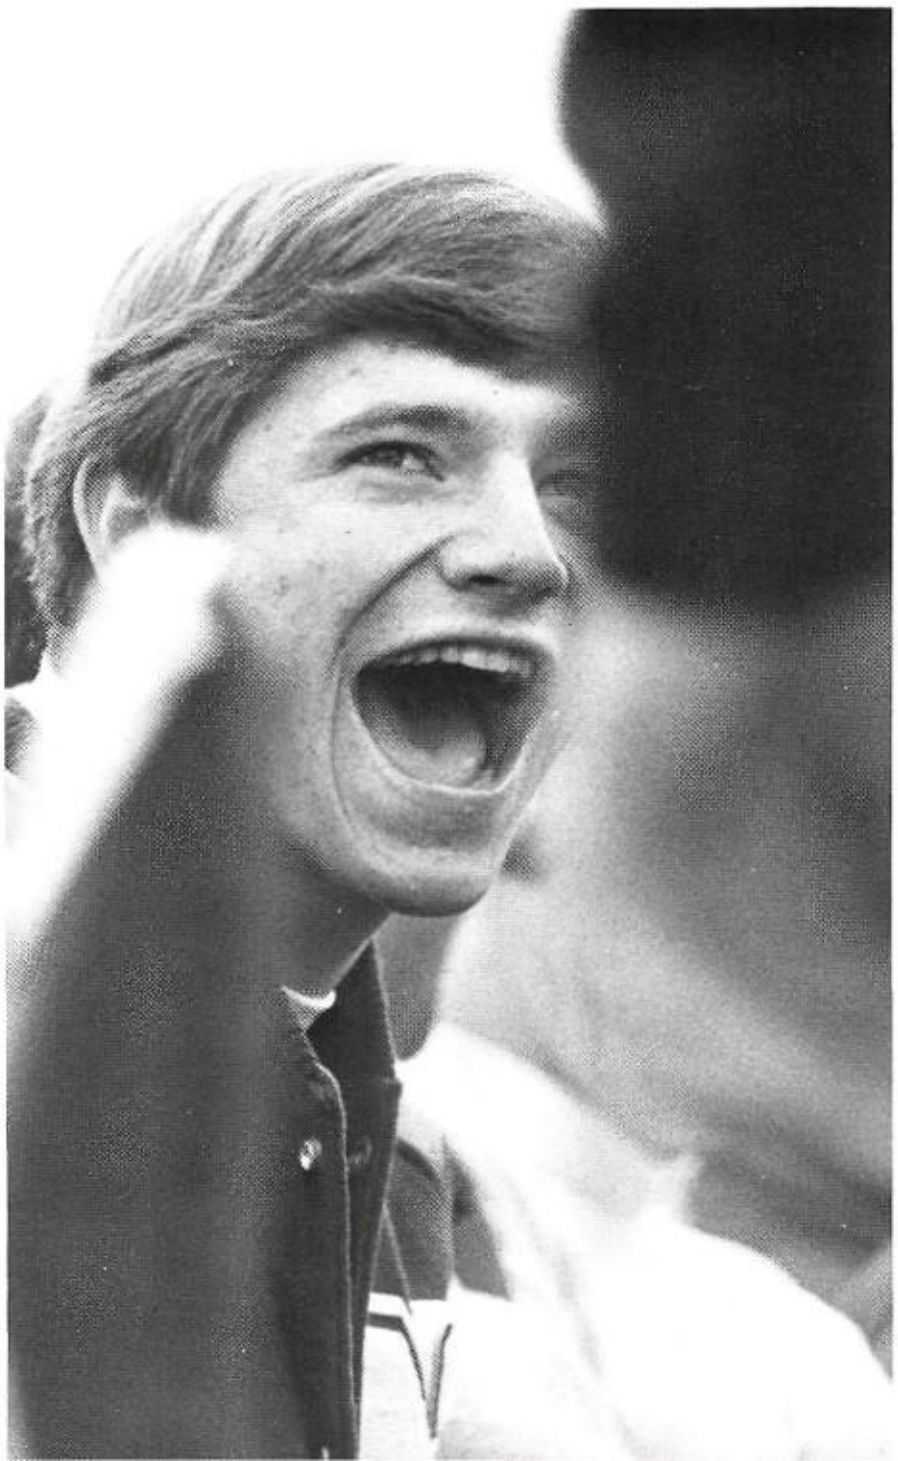
Northside world spins on – hurry is the word

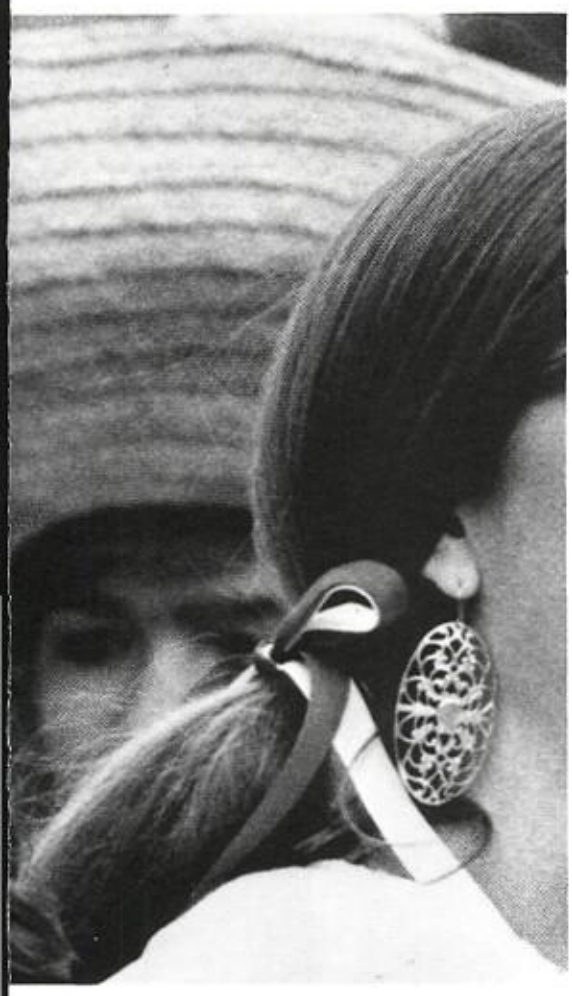
Northsiders hasten to their destination as precious time ticks away. In the morning, they rush in with anticipation of the day's events. No matter the time or weather, someone is always hurrying to get somewhere. And if along the way they gather up others going in the same direction, there is unity and companionship. Peabody students have seven minutes for the four blocks, a quarter of a mile, from Peabody to Northside. (They said it wasn't enough time, but Tommy Cheyne ('72) runs the 440, a quarter of a mile, in 50.5 seconds.) Elsewhere a five minute-passing period must encompass a detour by the snack bar, an exchange of latest gossip, and 30-second dash to class.



Homecoming said it, but it had already been drawn in Grizzly Grins. Fun and frolic ruled the year. Our smiles were alike, yet totally individual. Some laughed at themselves, some laughed at others, some laughed with the sheer joy of being alive. Classroom to club, football to faculty follies, they all fitted together in the symmetry of involvement. On their shirts, on their cars, on their signs, they said it: "Smile, you're in Bear Country."

Year gets off to bouncing start with Grizzly Grins





Wheels make the scene for movin' and groovin'

Sixteen—the magic number! With this age comes the eligibility to obtain a license and drive . . . and drive . . . and drive . . . to school or home or club meetings or ball games or to a job (which supports the car which supports the job). Having a car means joy, responsibility, convenience (even, if after both parking lots are full, you have to park as far as eight blocks from the campus). The next best thing to owning a car is knowing someone else who does. A car means leaving for school at 7:30 (to take the "scenic route" to arrive at 8:20, just before the first bell), eating lunch off campus and going to Sandy's at 3:05.

It's Northside and it's NUMBER ONE.

Number one–reserved for Northside by acclamation of Northsiders. "We love to compete, we love to win, we love to be number one" . . . "Even if we don't win the number one place, at least we gave the winners a number one race" . . . "We HAVE to be a number one band, we're playing for a number one school" . . . "It's only logical that we're number one at the end of the season because we were in first place in the first place" . . . "When we win, the whole team wins, but when we lose, everyone shares the loss–that's number one" . . . "At the first of the season we had a good chance of being number one, and we were" . . .,"We have the desire and are putting forth an eff to reach our goal of being number one, nothing less" . . . "We ARE number one . . .Because we expect to be."

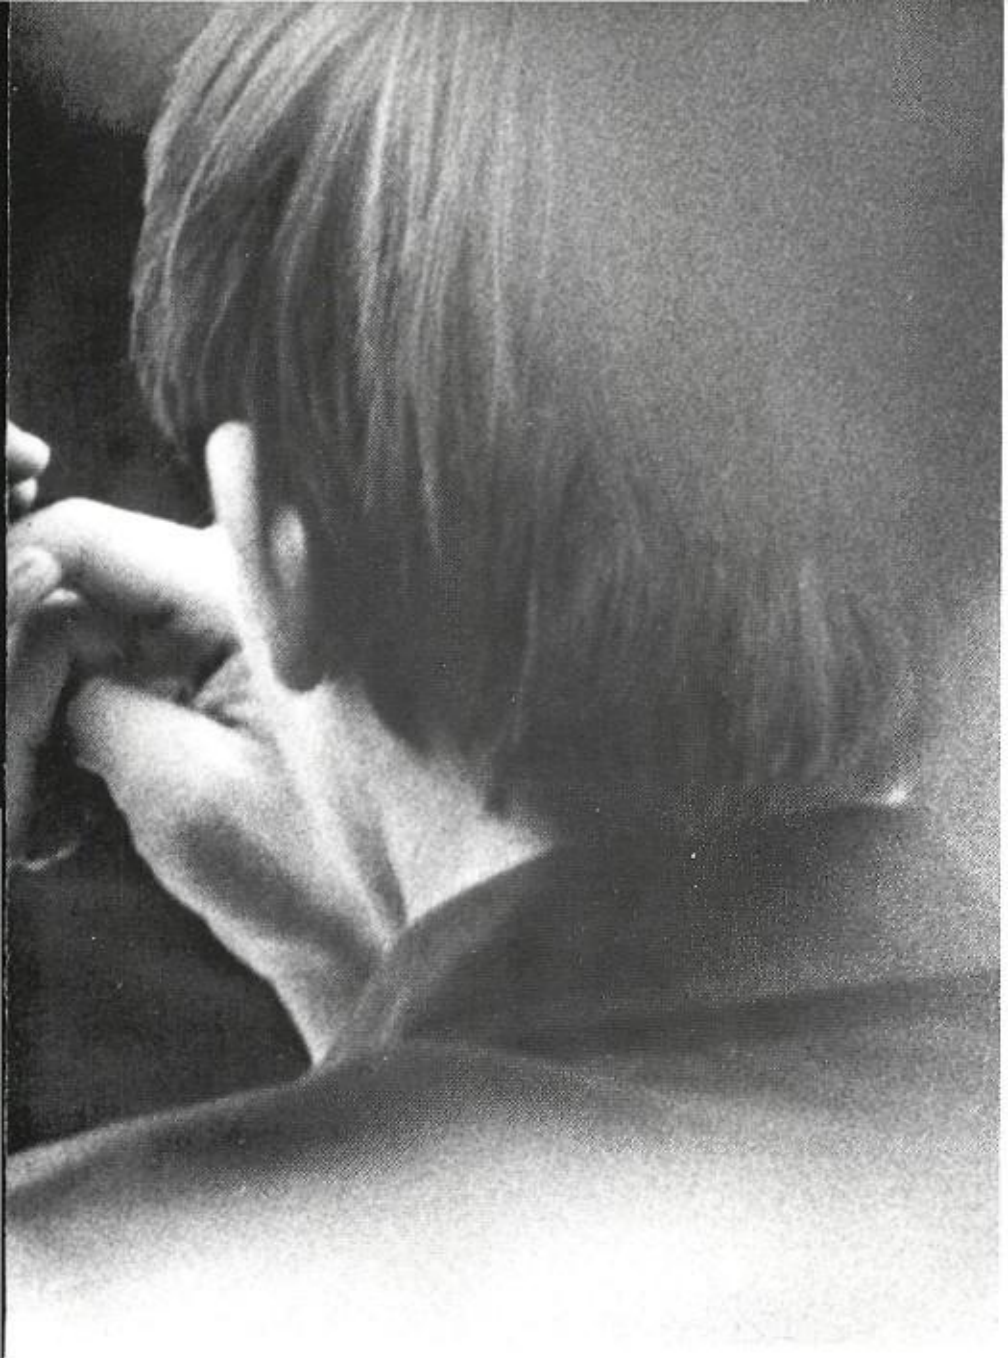
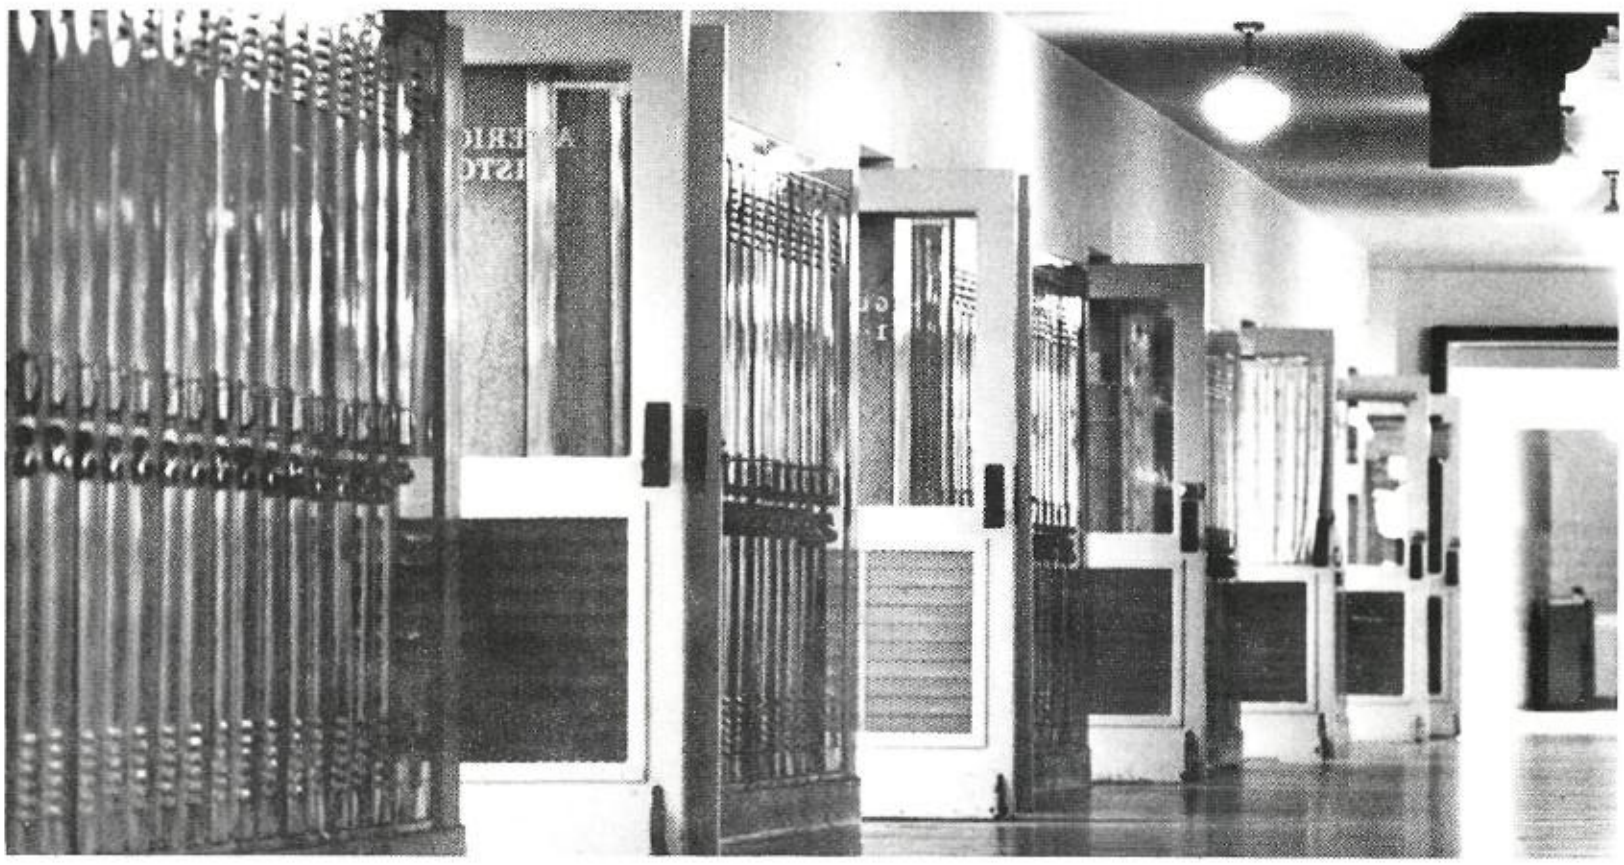
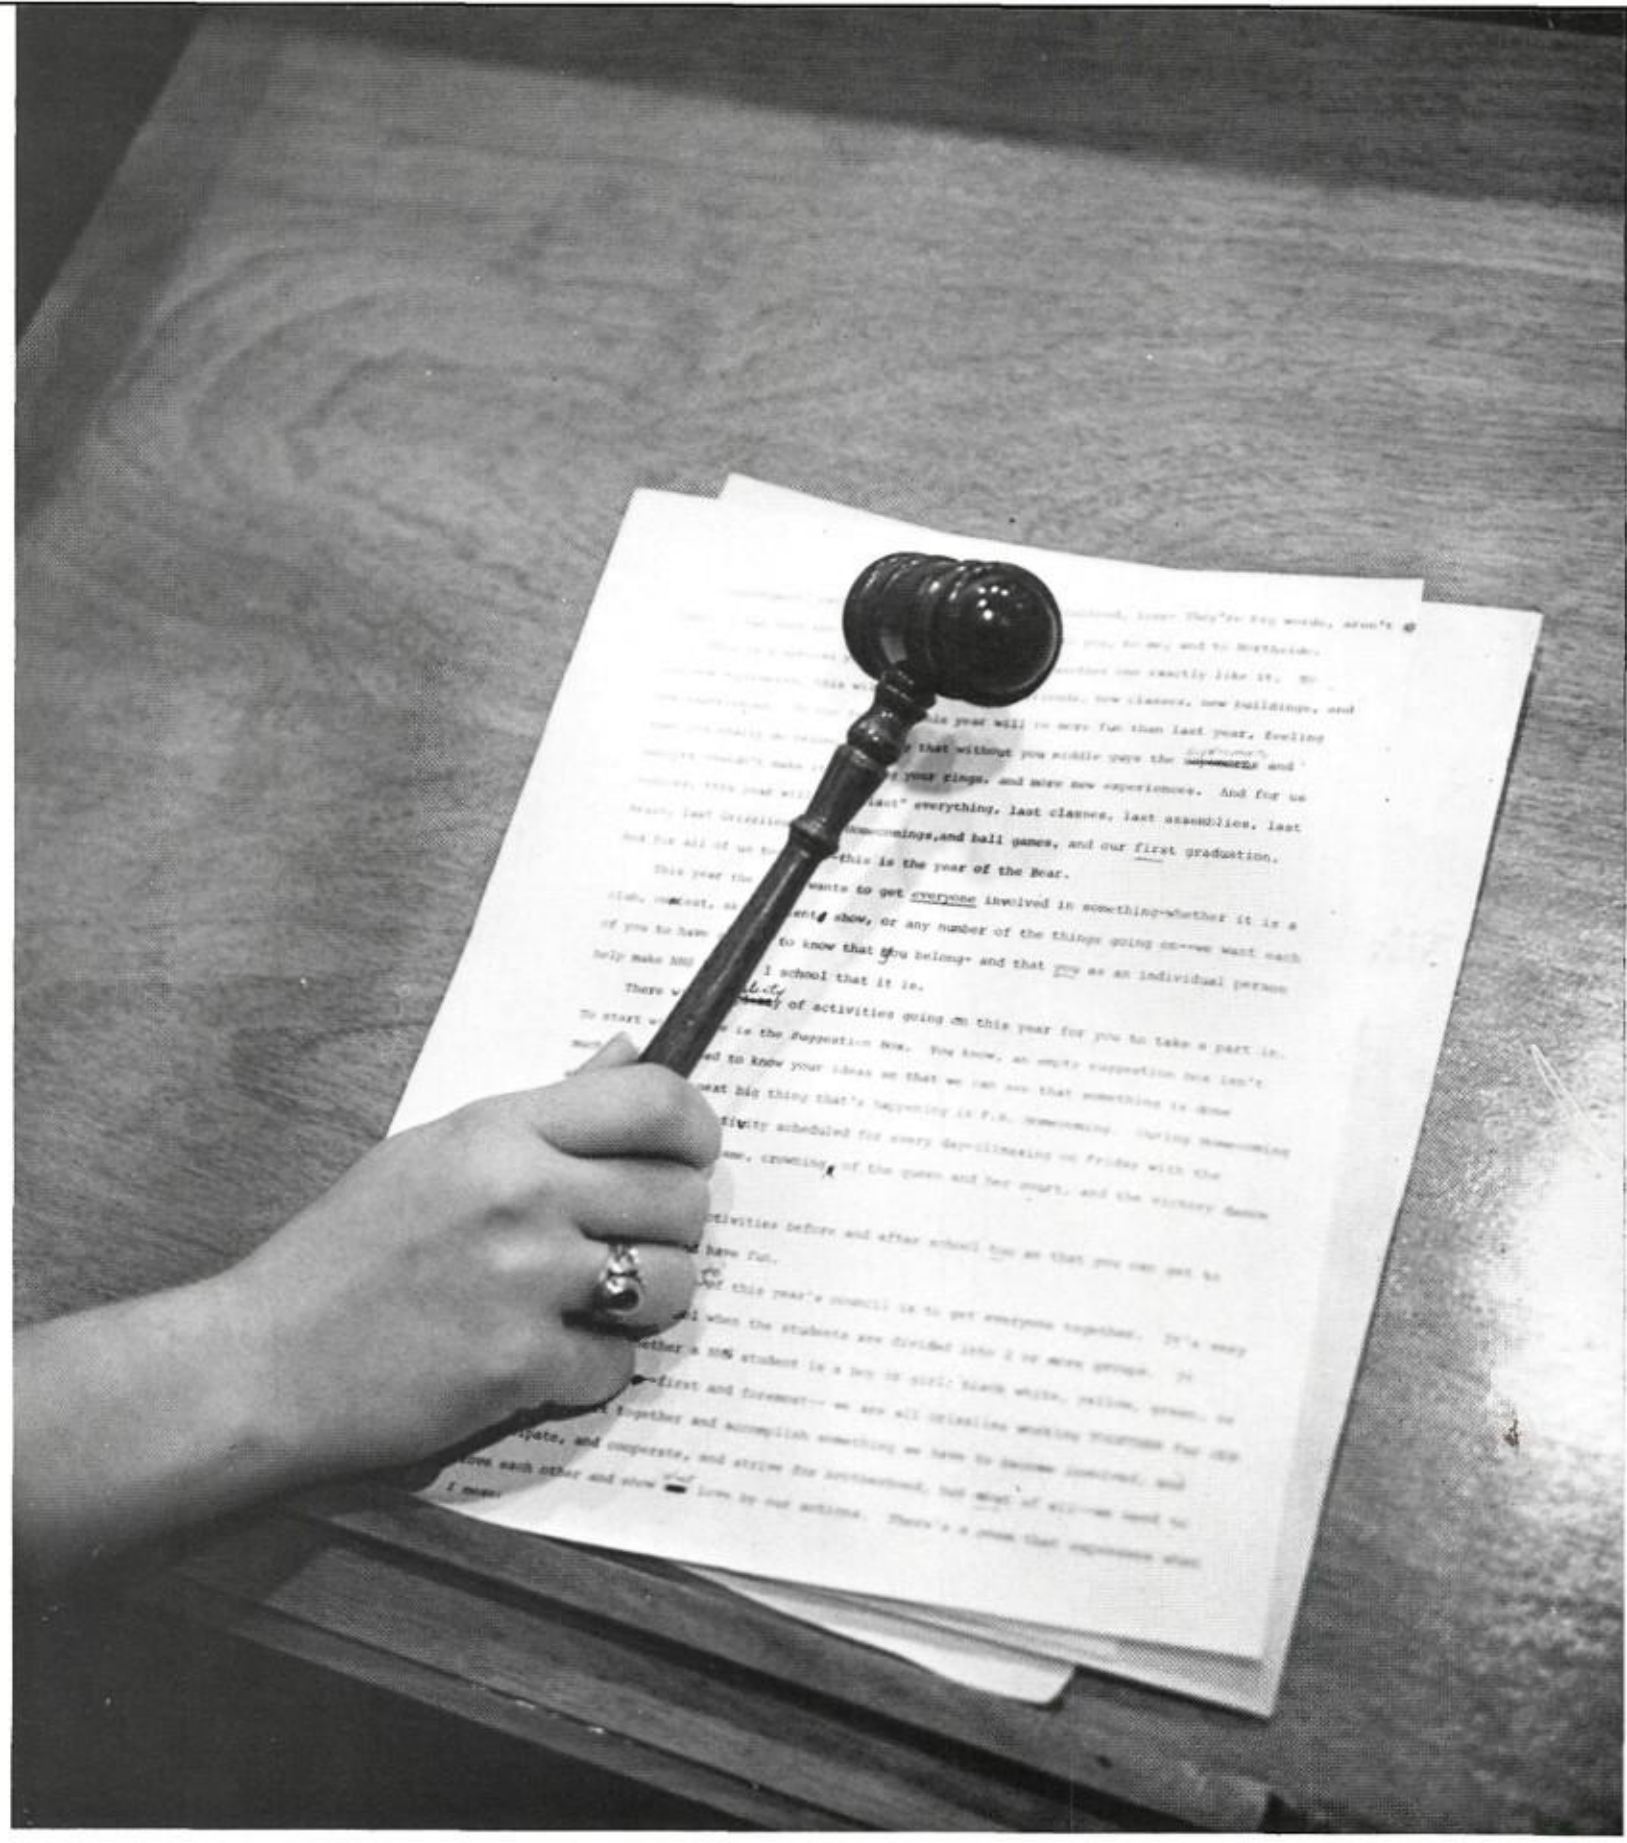
"Get concerned, get involved, act, accomplish. You can change the world, if you'll try." We began to believe, to determine, to uphold the issues we believe in, to achieve something. Environmental projects were prominent in our activities. A deeper feeling of relating to each other began to develop. The Northside Confederation of Black Students was one hand reaching out for a better understanding.



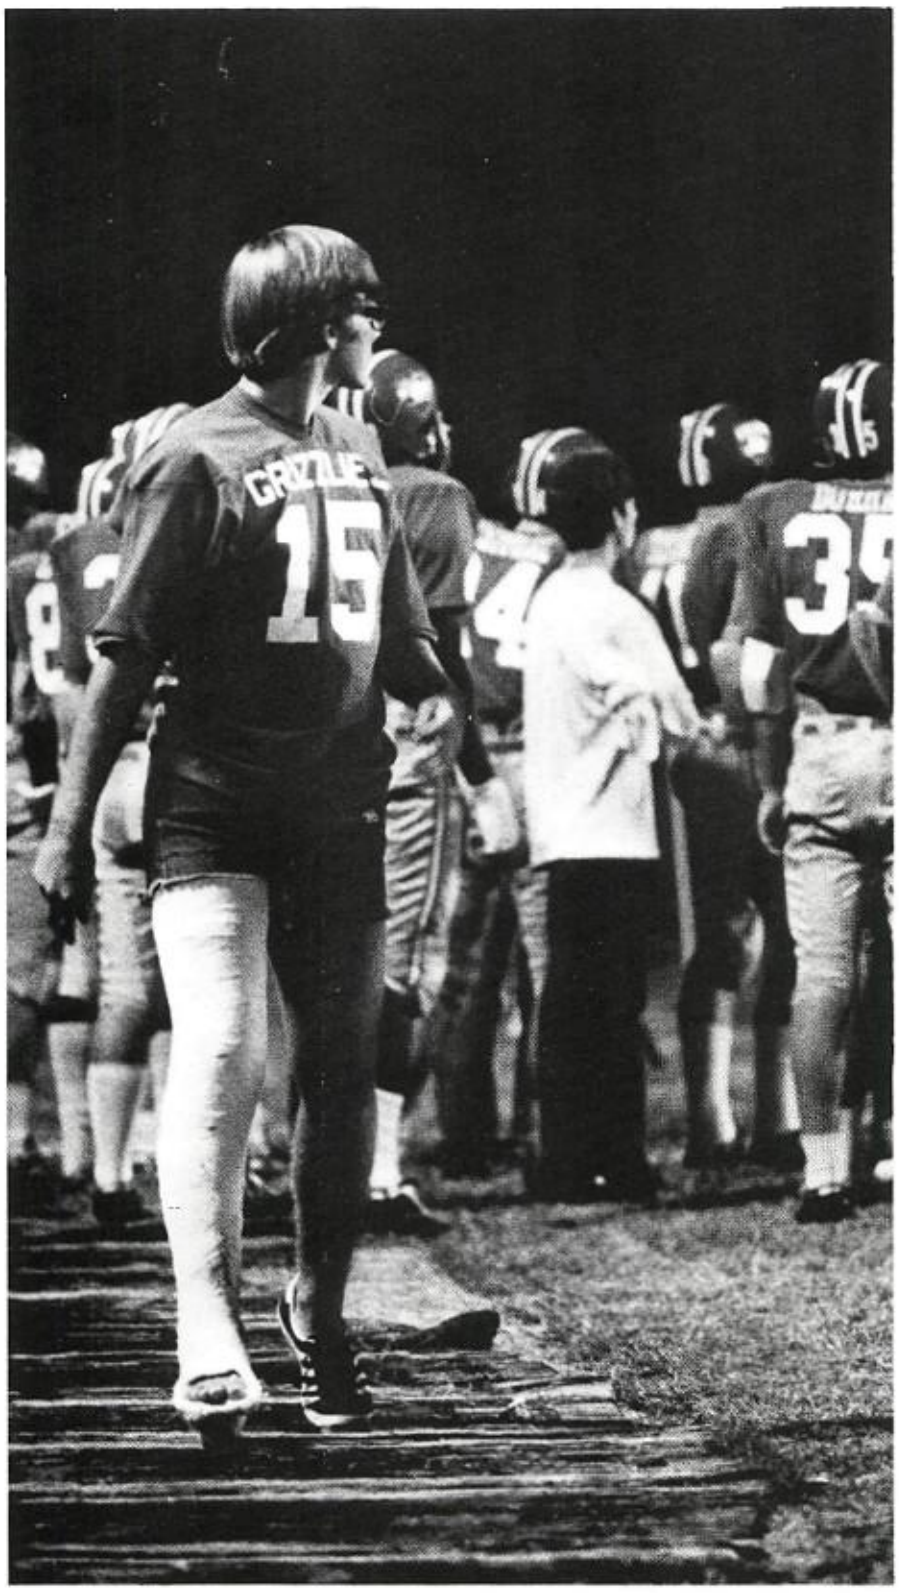
We talked, we persuaded, we sometimes argued, but we cared. The doors of education were opened to us, and as we crossed the threshold to learn, concern became alive and active. We learned to try to think for oursleves, to speak for ourselves–and we learned to listen.

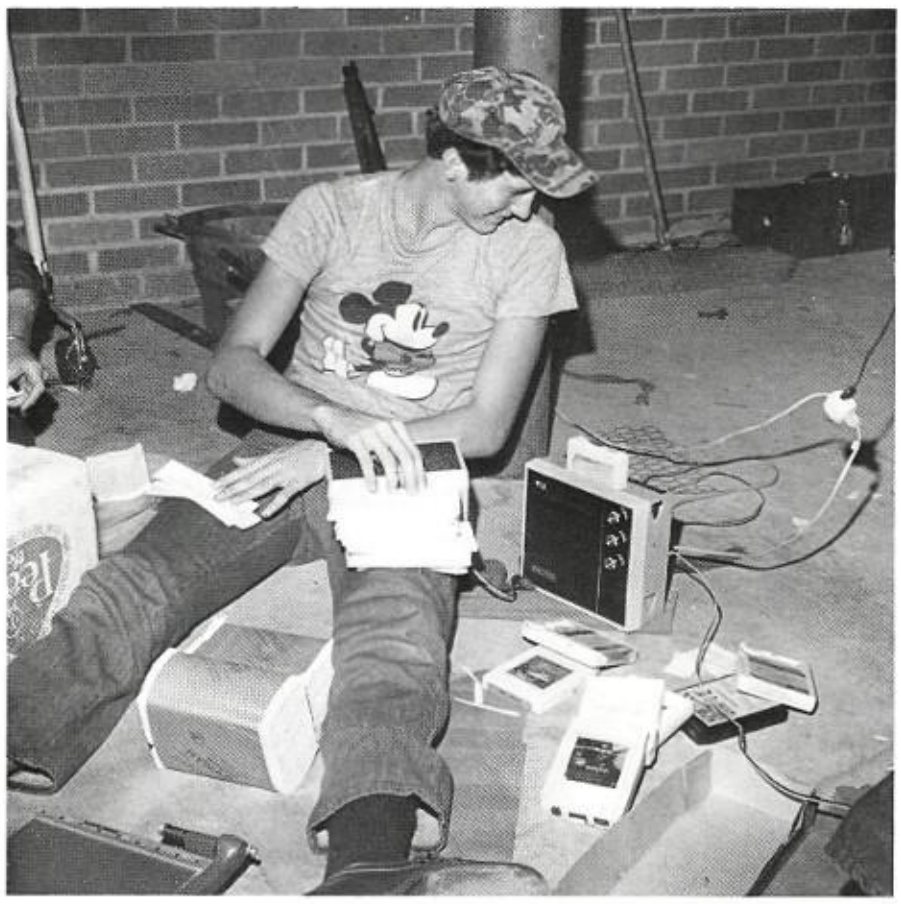
Concern prompts individual, group thinking, action



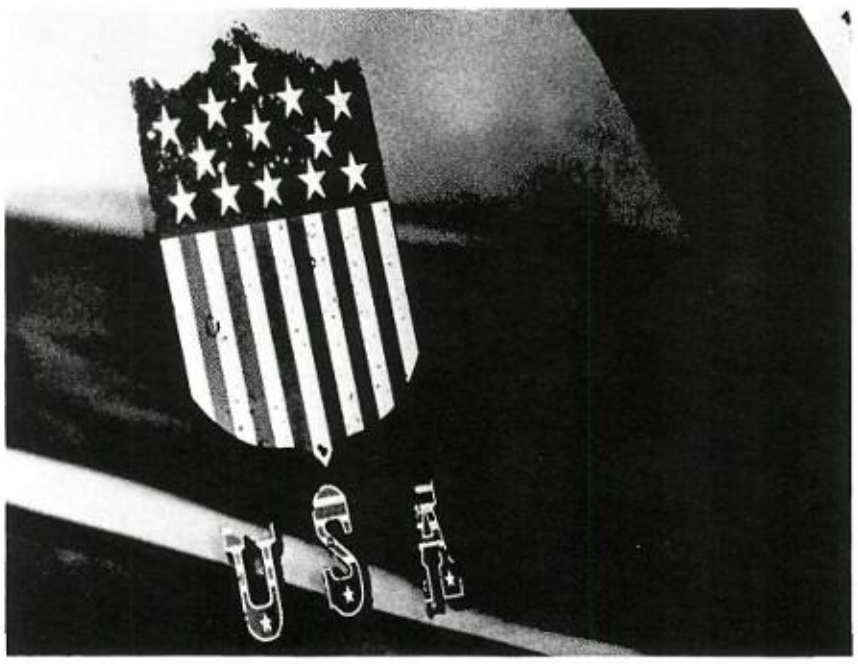


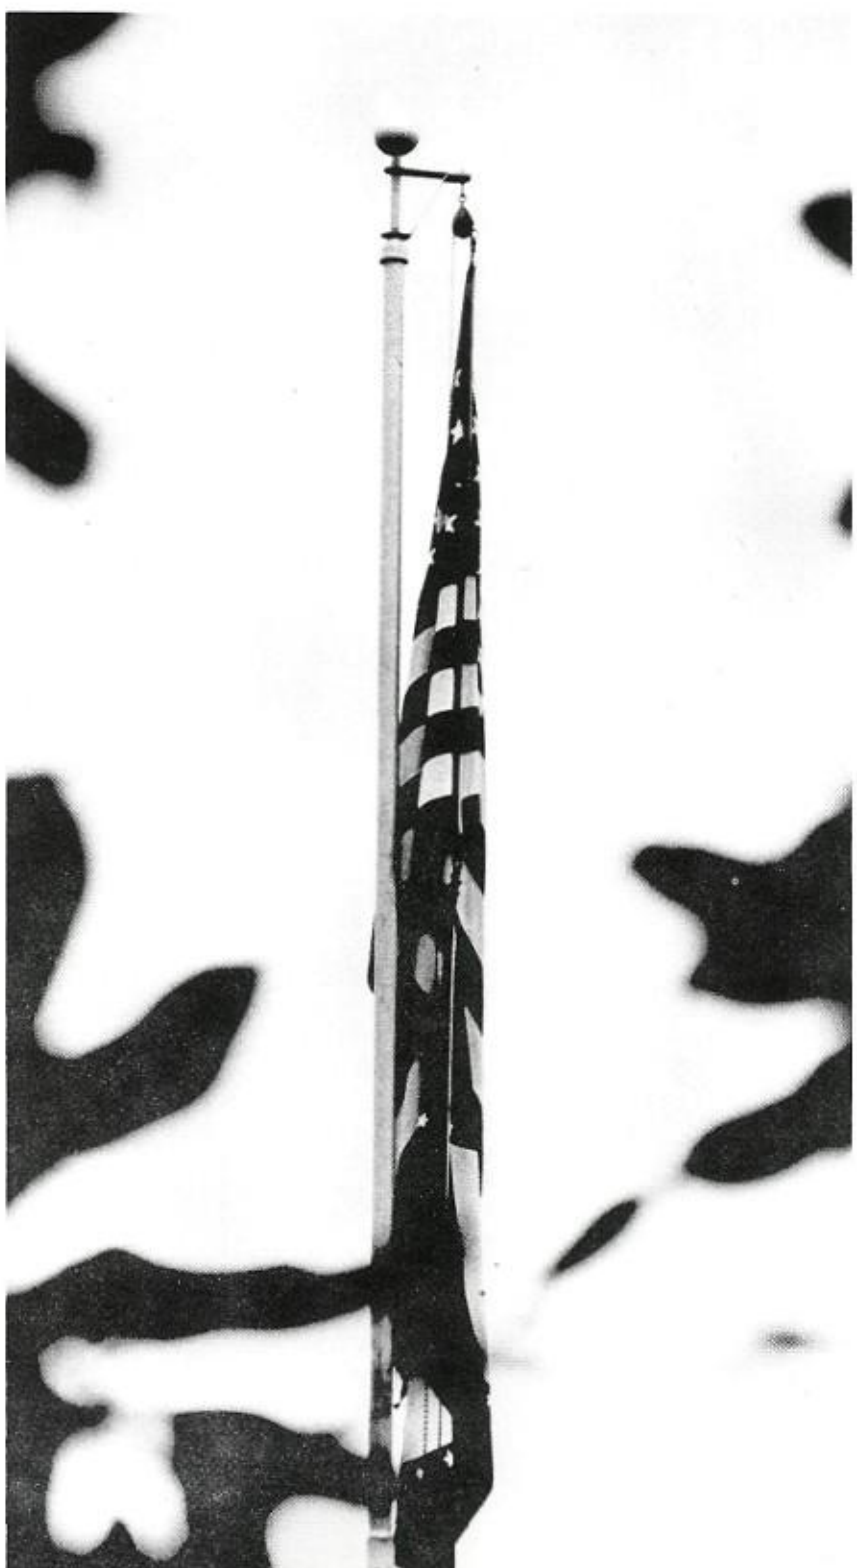
'Involvement' is key word in campus activities

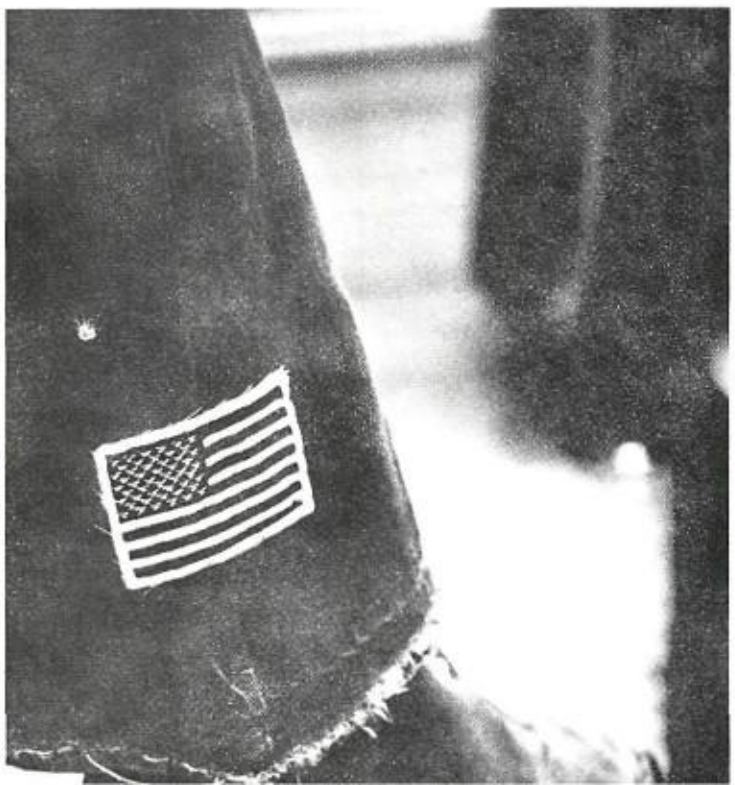




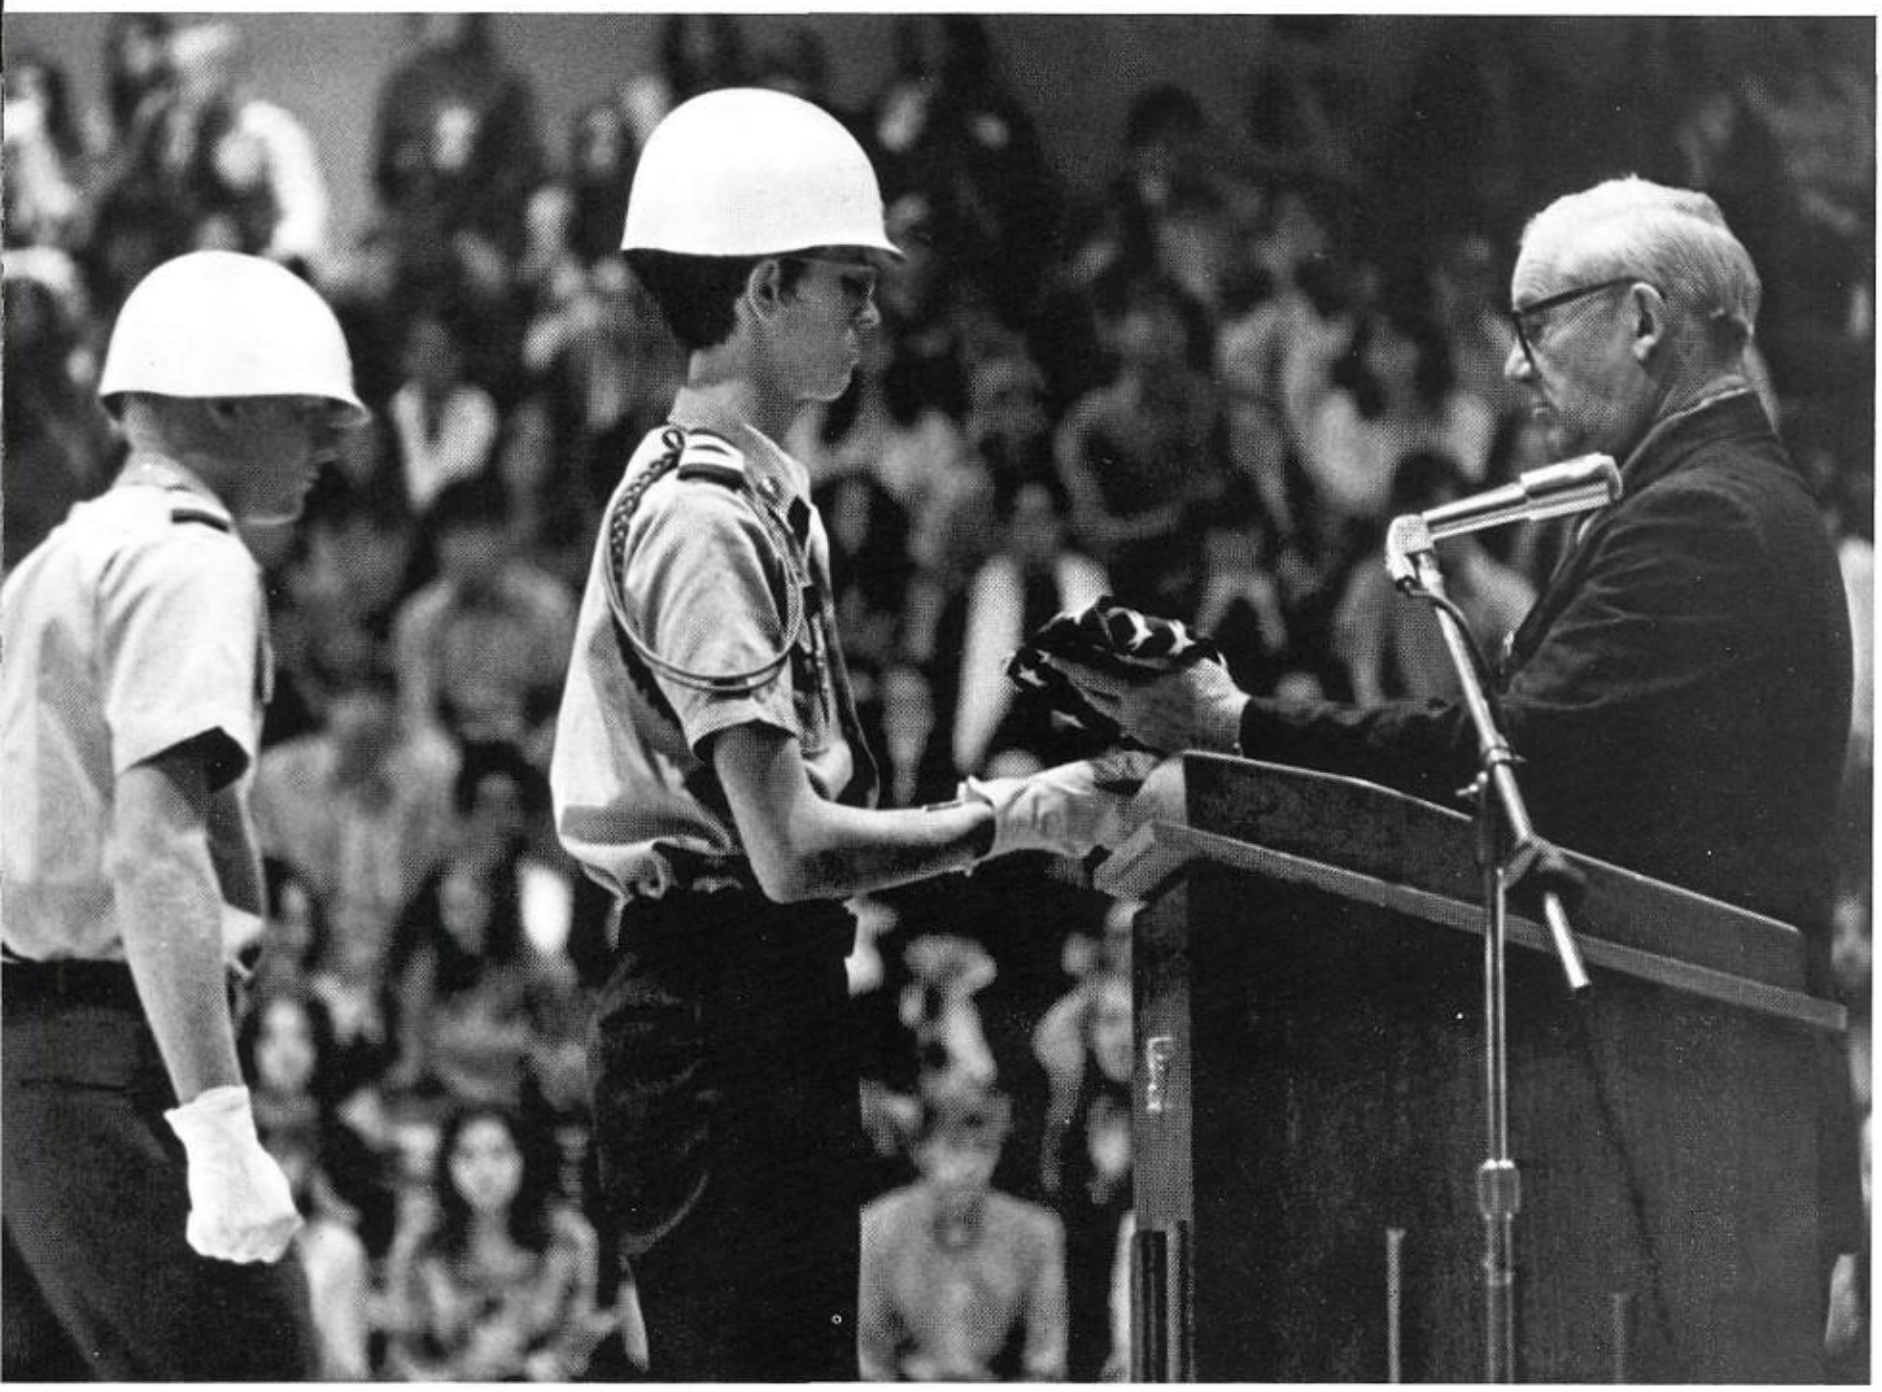
We began by taking things into our own hands. Our energy was channeled into ecology efforts and float building, into a range of activities to promote the $5,000 auditorium project. We learned of government through experience in the democratic process and joined in community service and political efforts. We worked together and alone to turn words into actions. From a kaleidoscope of interests, the student body merged, unique personalities walking different paths, yet together. Thirty-one clubs offered a chance at expression, a way to say, "This is what I am. This is what I like." Seventy-five teachers taught 90 courses designed to broaden our scope, help us form opinions and ideas.







Flag seen as symbol of new sense of belonging



Peace, prosperity and a realization of our role in the world around us. These were our hopes, our goals. We bore the signs of patriotism in many forms. We accepted the traditional, yet mingled it with our contemporary interpretations. On both campuses flew the old, with the new from the nation's capital. Ours is a new sense of belonging, of helping to form our democracy and our destiny. Our ideas are our own, conceived from the minds of men dedicated to this way of life. We fly the flag, we wear the flag, we glue, sketch and salute the flag, all with the same enduring pride for what it represents to us and our futures, alone and collectively. This is our America.

Chapter three

The 3 R's-and more

The "little red school house" is still red but it's not very little any more. After buying the house on 22nd Street to be used as a student parking lot, Northside occupies 12 acres. Courses are being offered in 10 different fields but many students think more specialized courses such as philosophy, sociology and psychology are needed to let each student concentrate his talents in different fields. The newest program is the Co-operative Office Education, or COE program giving students on-the-job training in offices. As the personal and material needs of the students increase, the "little red school house" expands also. Offering more than an education, Northside is sometimes known as a home away from home.

NHS students attend open board meetings

Involvement—that's what keeps Northside moving on. This year, NHS students decided, as a part of becoming involved, to see exactly how the "establishment" works. Among their "searching" activities, Northsiders attended school board meetings, open to the public, at the school service center. They listened as a five-page financial report relating to Northside was read, and watched as funds were approved for the purchase of property for a Northside students' parking lot on North 22nd Street.

The seven-member Board of Education administers the total program of curricular and extracurricular activities for 13,424 students in the local school district. Board members for 1971-72 were Luther Hodges Jr., president; Dr. Neil E. Crow, vice-president; Mrs. Blanche P. Tinder, secretary; Mrs. Katherine R. Boulden, E. J. (Cotton) Embry, Douglas O. Smith Jr. and David E. Stubblefield. All are invited to campus functions.

Among Northsiders who attended school board meetings was Editor Vicki White, above and left. After a Noon Exchange luncheon, she interviewed Dr. C. B. Garrison, superintendent of Fort Smith public schools.

New school superintendent says education able to bridge 'gap'

With the new freedoms of youth and the 18-year-old vote, Northsiders have gained a new awareness—an awareness of civic and community happenings. In addition to attending school board meetings, students discovered that the school service center is not only the home of school management but also a center for supplies, requisitions, correspondence and the everyday needs of the average student. As Northsiders became involved with the community, the community noticed the Northside student lifestyle.

"The 'bridging' of the generation gap is the challenge of education," stated Dr. C. B. Garrison, new public school superintendent. "The school can be the 'bridge' if it will stive to humanize its program. We must strive for values, fundamental assumptions and principles that all students can accept. We must concern our schools with the present and the future, as well as the past."

Other administrators are Ralph B. Riley, assistant superintendent and director of instruction; Guy Hixson, director of finance and business affairs; Calvin G. Patterson, director of secondary education; and Wallace C. Floyd, director of elementary education.

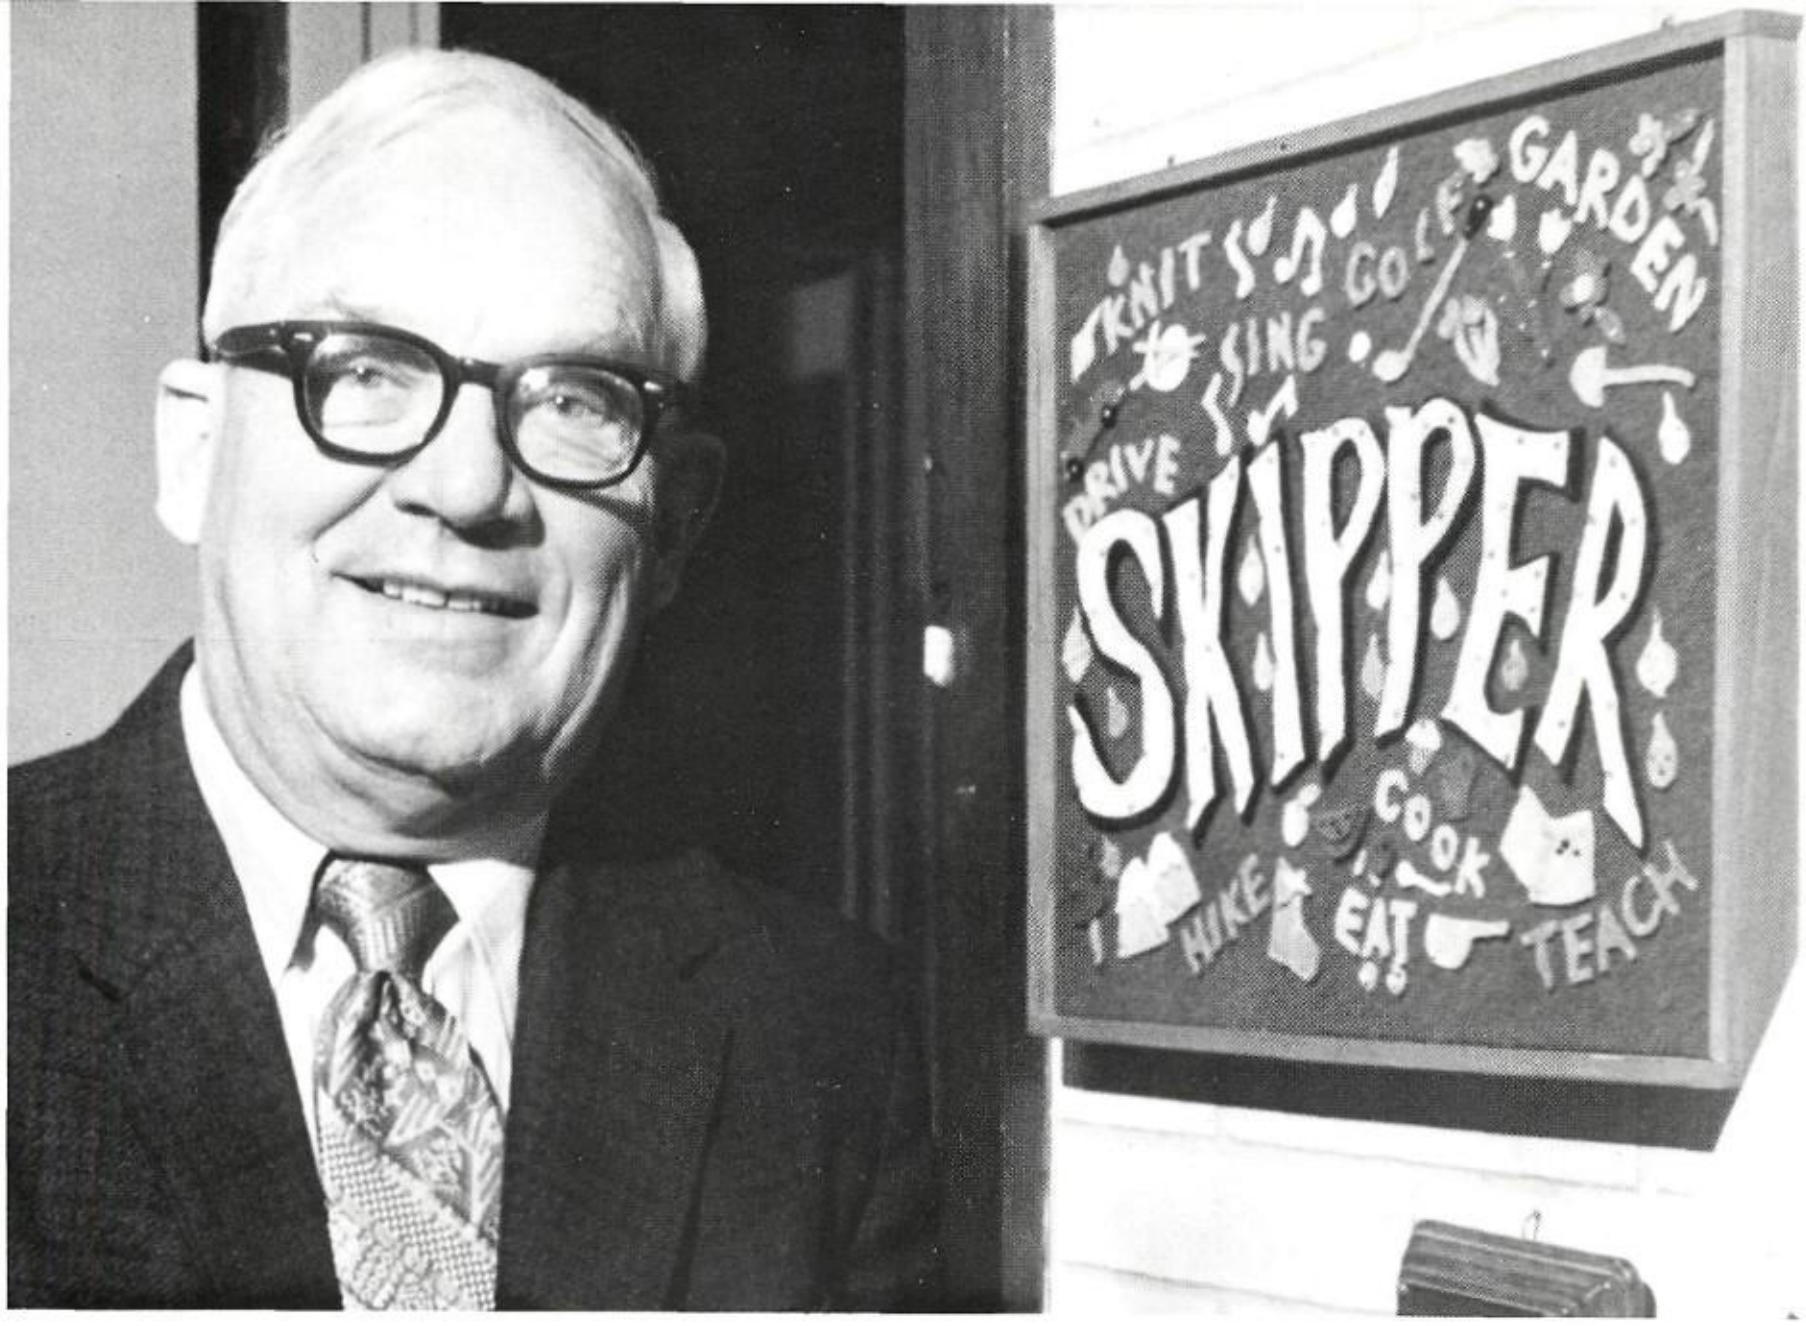
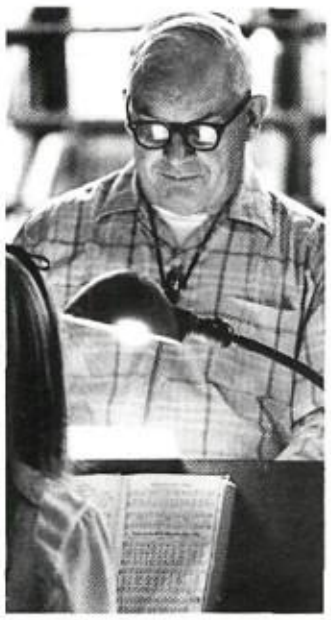
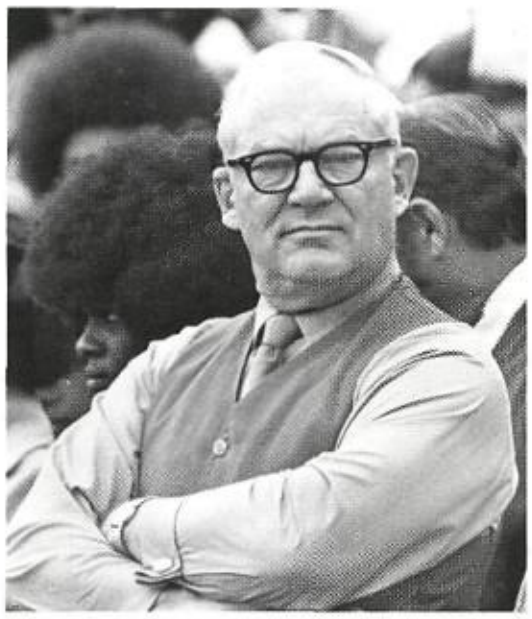
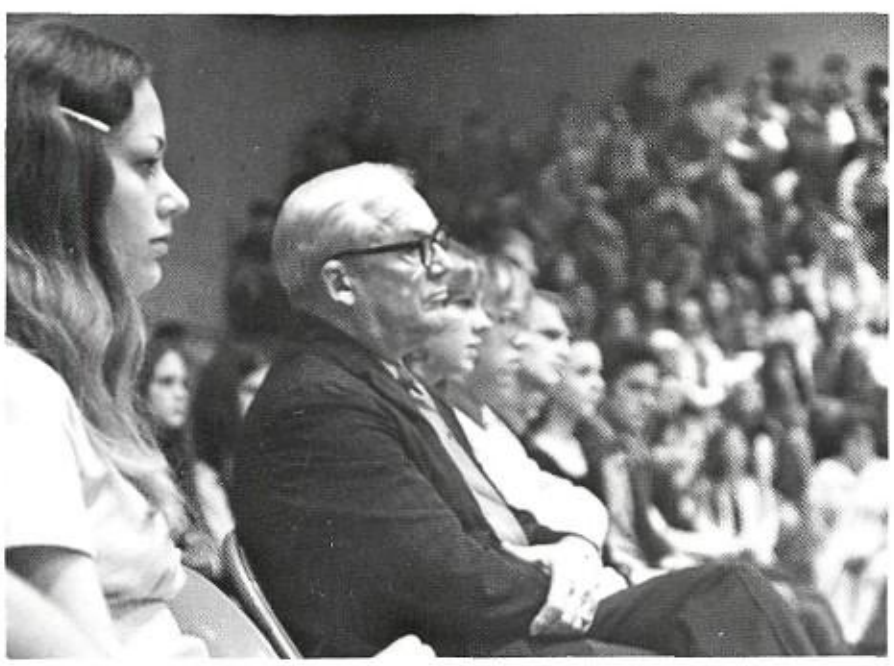
As Northsiders began to "infiltrate" the community, civic leaders began to take notice, as shown with Editor Vicki White in an interview with Dr. C. B. Garrison, superintendent.







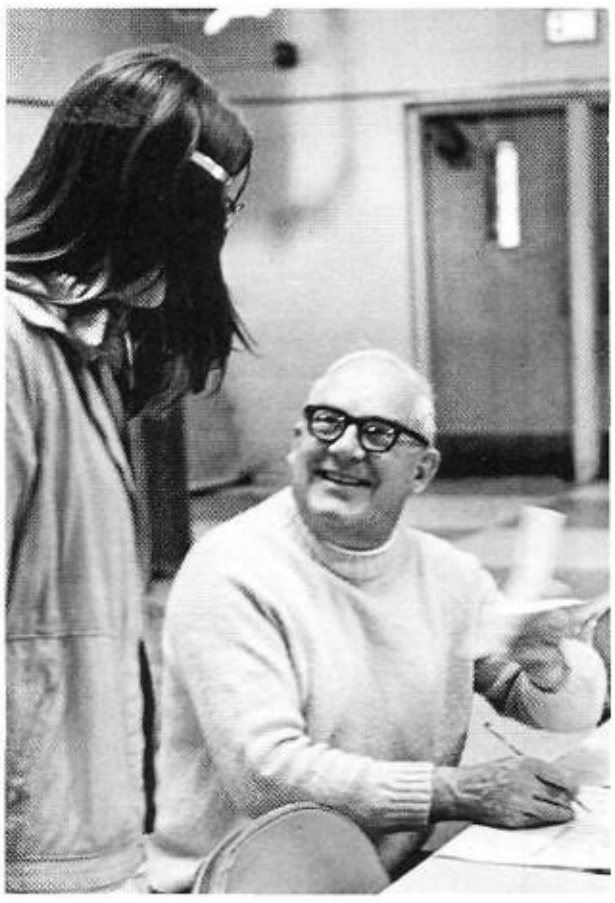


'Skipper' charts No. 1 course for NHS Bears

Northside's "Skipper" Farnsworth, with his unfailing enthusiasm for the Grizzly way of life, has again led NHS through a memorable number one year. Whether donning red and white for homecoming, or pausing for a moment of reflection in his Grizzly-decorated office, R. Earl Farnsworth is the image of a dedicated "Bear-booster."

What is a principal? "The principal of a high school today has many concerns, and must necessarily be responsible for the school—all of it," he says. "A large school, such as Northside, is a conglomerate almost impossible of definition. It is sports, it is fine arts, it is academics. If education is life, those who experience it together as one student body must be a sort of family. My wish is that we be a happy, co-operative, all-for-one and one-for-all sort of family. That is what is needed to make and keep Northside a number one school."

Aside from "charting the courses" for 1,725 students and 86 teachers, "Skipper" sponsors the National Honor Society and Leo Club. Popular as a lecturer, he last year was named "Principal of the Year" by the Arkansas High School Press Association. Enjoying a range of hobbies, he sings, cooks, travels, knits and plays golf, and is an avid photographer, crafts enthusiast, rose fancier and the number one backer for the number one Bears.



Deans, guidance staff assist, test, listen, counsel

As Northside's lifestyle "infiltrated" the Fort Smith community, changes were taking place in Grizzlyland. With the addition of Miss Cecilia Kaelin to the counseling staff, students for the first time had a guidance counselor for each grade. Northside's counselors have many responsibilities. They administer, evaluate and discuss the testing program with students, help as many as possible to plan their future courses and afford a listening ear for personal problems.

Northside's three deans–Mrs. Dale Bennett (right), Clifton Grace and Bill C. Bardrick (opposite page)–carry on a variety of activities. They meet with parents to discuss curricular problems and others, counsel with students individually and assist the principal in his total program.

Reading

Man's search for truth discovered through books

An idea is a thought embedded in someone's mind. By itself, it does nothing for anyone but its originator. But if that idea is taken and compared to the ideas of others, if it is expanded and refined by informed addition and open-minded review, if it is recorded in such a way that it can be shared with someone else, then that idea has the potential to enrich the lives of all who encounter it. This is why the doctrines of Marx were available to Lenin. This is why Thoreau's thinking on civil disobedience was available to Ghandi. This is why Kennedy's observations of courage are available to any who desire to stand for principle. If there were not a way to preserve the knowledge and opinions of man, civilization as we know it would not exist.

So we read. To be informed; to be enraged; to be inspired. We read to discover the thoughts of others and to examine our own thoughts. We read with the ultimate aim of discovering truth and applying it to our lives. For as long as there is man, there will be a search for truth. And as long as there is a search for truth, man will read. Northside offers this opportunity.

Literature establishes link to communication

The invention of writing marked the beginning of civilization. It established a more definite form of communication among men, and more important to modern civilization, it serves as a means of recording ideas and events. From these writings, modern man has been able to achieve some understanding of the thoughts and actions of the men who shaped his world. Today writing is taught as a means of communication. The types and styles may vary with the thought communicated and the purpose. A journalist may write to inform the people, an essayist to give them his ideas and a novelist to entertain them. It is vitally important that writing skills are developed in school if man is to know how to communicate his reactions to the world around him.

9 Northsiders gain experience in teaching

"Teacher" is a word that nine students from Northside heard this year in a program of student-teaches-student at Fairview Elementary School. These Northsiders aided the teachers in the daily routine and offered individual help to the children—Michelle Pence, Russel Jones, Tim Smith, Karen Wheeler, Kelly Miller, Fritzie Moore, Carl Wikstrom, Rosie Kesner and Marci Smith.

'Rithmetic

Worlds of math go beyond book

"One plus one equals two, and two plus two equals . . . " 'Rithmetic is one of the first subjects taught to students. It begins by simply learning how to count. As the grades progress so does the mathematics. At Northside, the principles learned early are applied not only in the four math courses offered but in a range of other subjects using math. Teachers try to do more than what is in a textbook, in an effort to relate mathematics and its usage to today's world. Algebra and geometry are brought to life, for example by field trips to see how computers operate. In courses pertaining to business, such as business math, bookkeeping and accounting, four teachers apply them to the world of business. Classes practice keeping records and learning how to run a business efficiently. In office machines, students learn that there is more to a machine than a facade of appealing buttons, as skills lead toward careers.

Recognition

Courses offer 'the difference'

"Education makes a difference." That's the observation of Superintendent of Schools Dr. C. B. Garrison. High school can be a time of listlessness and conformity. It can be a mechanized routine. It can stiffle imagination and limit initiative. But if one finds his place, if he becomes involved, if he recognizes the value of achievement, then school becomes an avenue for discovery and expression. It becomes the focal point of individual thinking and the base for learning how to live in the world.

Responsibilities

Northsiders have a right to claim responsibilities

"Every Northsider has the right to acquire a basic education, to achieve recognition as an individual, to know what is going on, to voice opinions in matters that may create for himself a better, more meaningful way of life." These rights are meaningless without response. Northsiders have discovered that to "carry on the quest of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" is to be involved. Organizations raised money for rejuvenating the auditorium, and then created public interest in the community with a series of ecology projects. With the new voting laws, the word government has taken on a new meaning for 18-years-olds.

Special training offered in vocational classes

Northside's printing program, starting with a basic course in industrial arts, offers a vocational training program in a situation similar to a printing business. By the end of the course, the students are ready for a job in a printing plant, having gained training in almost every aspect of the printing business. Students spend four periods each day using complex, modern equipment doing printing jobs used in the school system. These include all printed forms, as well as sports programs, brochures and the like, school papers and magazines, and the report cards. Metalworking provides training and experience to students interested in considering this trade as a future. A basic course is followed by a second-year program that affords training for a possible future as a metal craftsman.

Good judgment, thinking a must in woodworking

Most people think of woodworking only in terms of the finished work. Most people look at a masterfully designed table or an expertly built bookshelf and value just its usefulness or its beauty. But few really appreciate the planning, preparation and skill that goes into an object's production. Woodworking is more than hammer and nails. Woodworking is good judgment and quick thinking. It is precision and diligence. It is safety and cooperation. The skills learned in woodworking will be useful to a person the rest of his life, even if he never touches another tool. For in woodworking, the primary emphasis is not placed on an object, but on the boy that makes it . . . Scenes of one day working on projects, supervised by Nolan Mainus, instructor.

Home ec skills practical in life

"The hand that rocks the cradle rules the world" is an old expression still relevant. Skills learned in the home economics department enable the young homemaker of tomorrow to cope with the problems she is likely to face. Many situations arise in a woman's life when she can rely on the basics learned in home economics—skills such as home nursing, home management, food planning and preparation, budgeting and entertainment. This year two annual teas along with the award to the outstanding home economics student of the year and the doll dressing project for the Salvation Army highlighted departmental activities.

Who am I? What am I doing here? Where am I going? These are questions everybody asks. These are questions that must be answered if life is to have any meaning. People must take a look at themselves. They must realize their inadequacies and their shortcomings as well as their potential and their abilities. School has to be more than 3 R's. 3 R's will not answer the questions you have about yourself and about your life. No amount of R's can do that. Northside cannot tell you what life is; it can only hope to equip you for finding out.

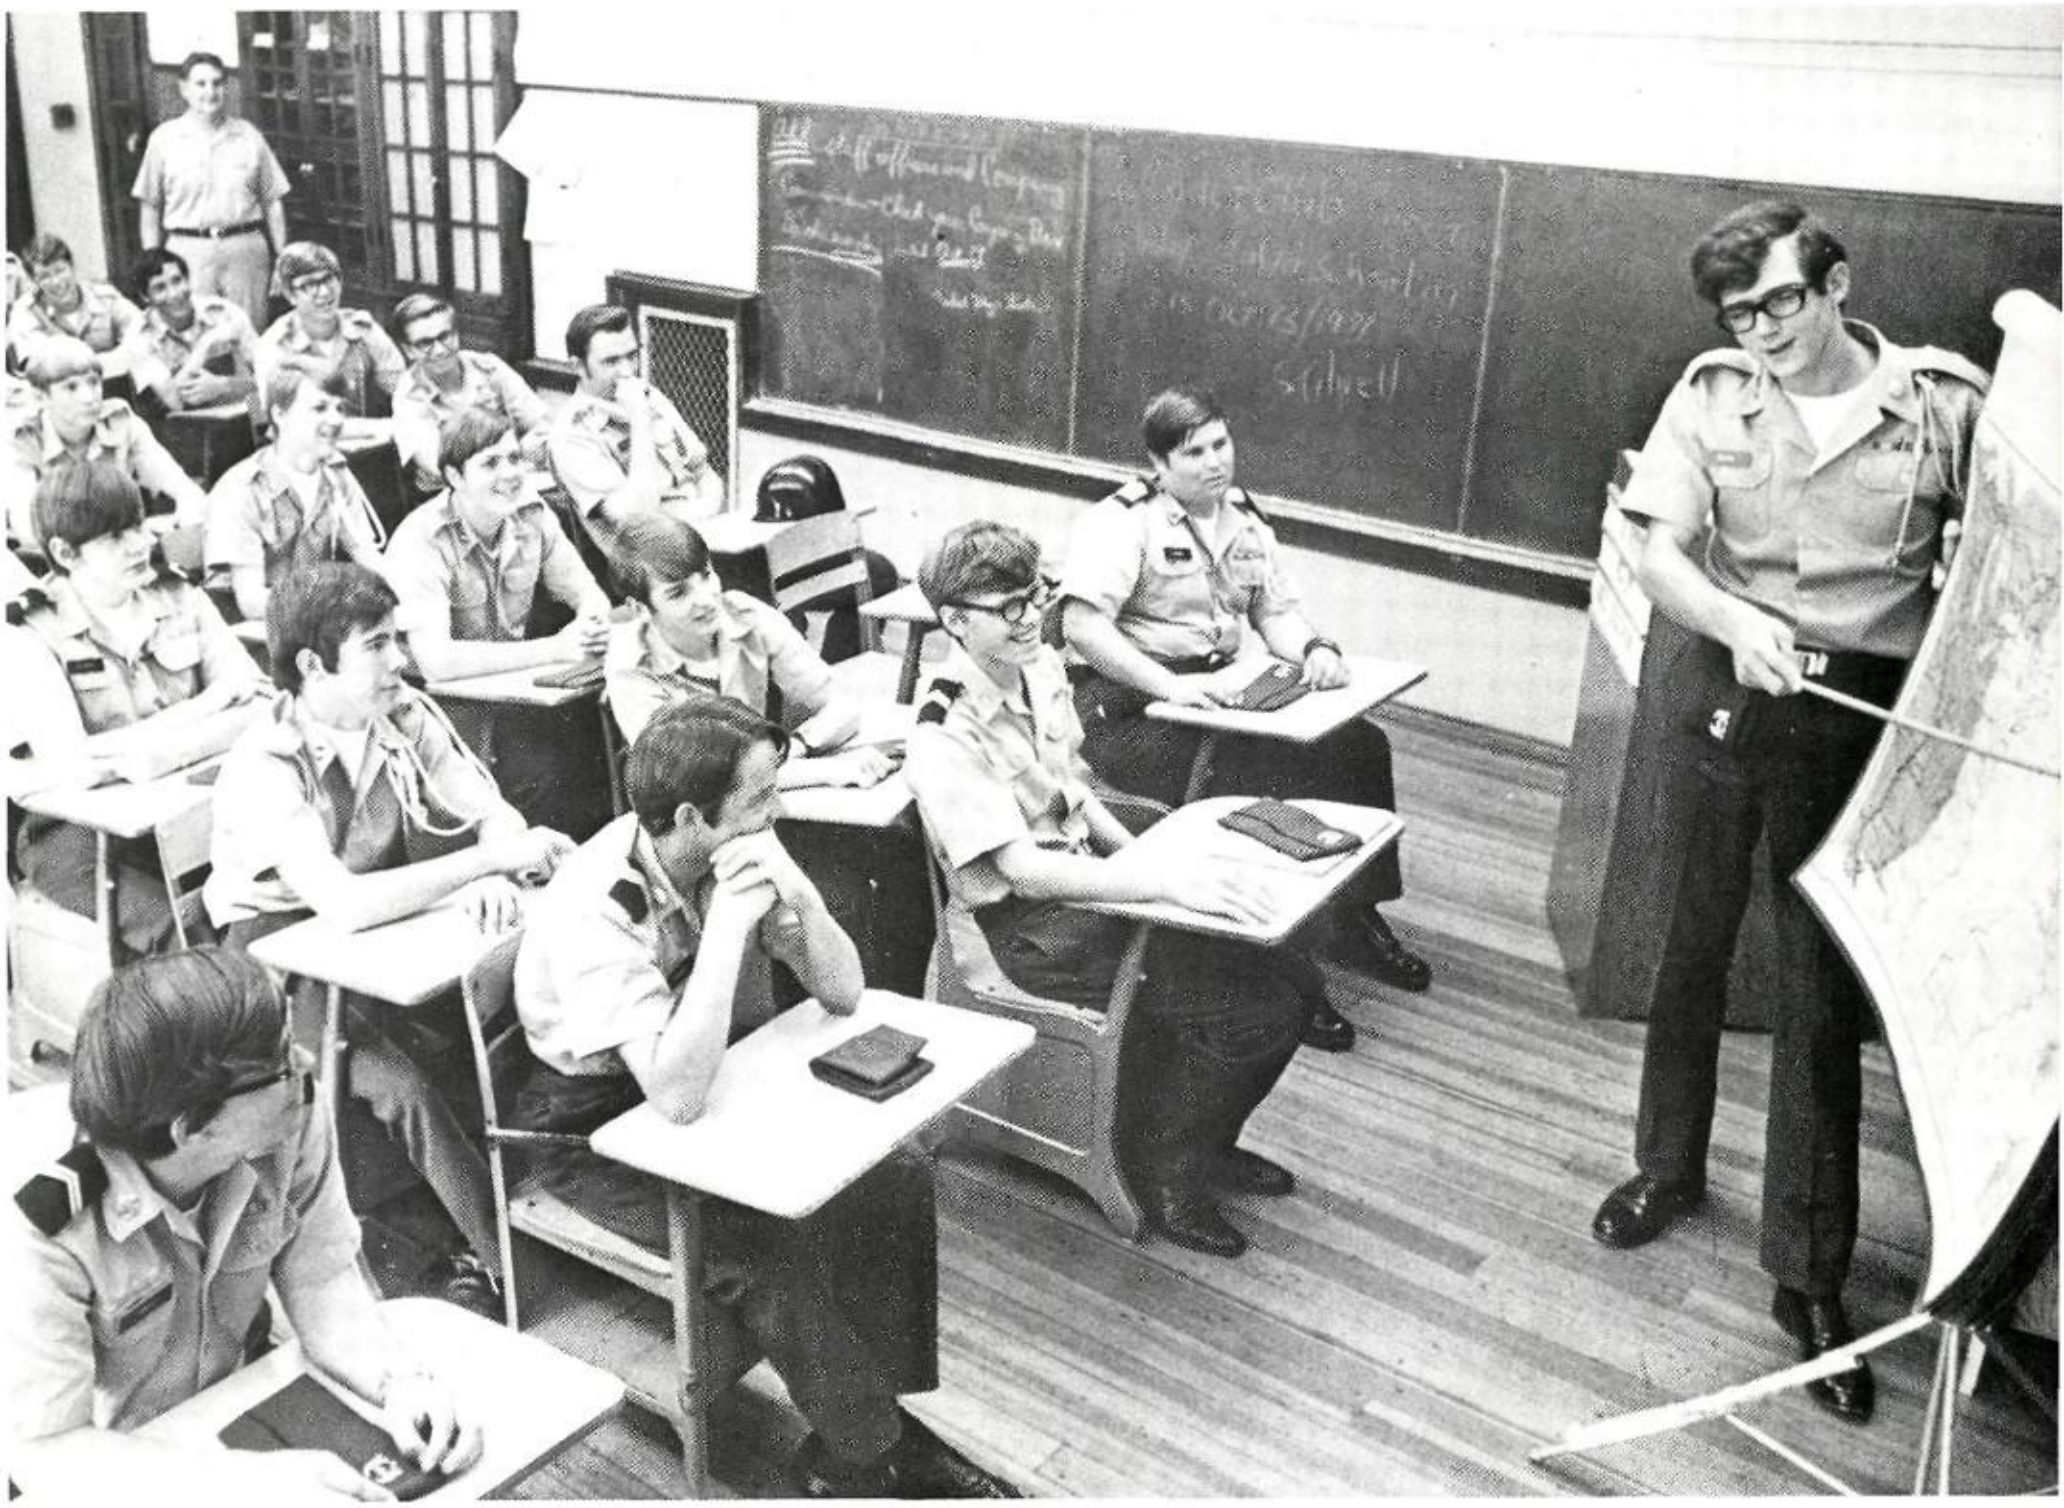
attempt to earn fourth honor rating



"Training Today For Leadership Tomorrow"—With this motto, cadet officers assumed command, and Northside's Junior Reserve Officers Training Corps paraded through another year of inspections, drill and classroom instruction. Marching in the homecoming parade and Christmas parade, being inspected by Fifth Army officials, and finally having the military ball were the highlights of their year.

"No matter where you go at any time, someone will always be telling you what to do. JROTC helps to prepare you for this, so you can accept an order or suggestion," says Col. Choice Rucker, instructor. "This is something you can't get around."

Bearing the distinction of having earned an honor rating three of the four previous years after General Inspection, the Junior Reserve Officers Training Corps started its fifth year of activities to try to make it four out of five. With 120 cadets in the corps, the entire unit was divided into four individual companies. The company commander for Company "A" was Cadet Captain Ricky Young; Company "B", Cadet Captain Gary Hamilton; Company "C", Cadet Captain David Deason; Company "D", Cadet Captain Stanley Leisure. The Drill Team commander was Cadet Captain Louis Wofford.

The battalion was under leadership of Cadet Lieutenant Colonel Robert Rich, who was aided by a staff of three cadet majors and one cadet sergeant major; Cadet Major Raymond Liotta, Cadet Major Terry Cross, Cadet Major Maurice Rapert and Cadet Sergeant Major Daniel Sapp. The Senior Army Instructor is Colonel Choice R. Rucker, and the Commandant is Master Sergeant William Loyd.

Practice and drill keep members busy

Homecoming parade, Fort Smith's and Greenwood's Christmas parades, competition with Van Buren and Southside, and practice, practice, practice are the things that keep JROTC Drill Team members busy. As a voluntary division of the JROTC battalion, the team had 14 members who took part in the team's activities. Led by Cadet Capt. Louis Wofford and Cadet 2nd Lt. Roy Fisher, the team was supervised by Col. Choice R. Rucker and MSG. William Loyd.

Chapter four

Moods of music . . .

Music has many moods. It creates moods in all it touches. A release for personal anxieties, music also makes crusaders. People scale their problems with music, they sing out, or play out for changing the world. It has the dimension of emotion. Music can communicate to all, its message is always apparent. At Northside, it may reflect the red and white spirit of the fight song, the happy carefree feeling of a popular tune, or the quiet moment of a choral Gloria Patri. Music also sets the stage and atmosphere in a way that words cannot. It can send a football team off to victory or usher in a moment of private thought. The moods of music . . . as varied as its tunes.

Far right: The Mixed Chorus reflect the mood of their music as they perform for an audience. Below left: The band marches in the annual homecoming parade. Below center: Miss Edna Earle Massey directs her choral students. Below right: Gary Horne shows that music isn't just work.

This was a year of top-note performances for Northside's choral department. The eighth annual city-wide choral festival served as a season opener as 1,050 Fort Smith choral students assembled in the Northside field house October 18. Under the direction of Dr. Gene Kenney from the Texas Tech University, the singers practiced all day for two performances to be given in the afternoon and evening. December 7 proved to be a pleasant evening for Christmas shoppers at Central Mall as the Mixed Chorus entertained them with Christmas carols. Fifteen students who were selected to perform in the region choir spent December 10 at Arkansas Tech rehearsing with other singers for all-state-tryouts to be held in February. Tech was the scene for the region choral festival in which vocalists from Northwest Arkansas performed for honors. From here, the department went to Hot Springs, where they competed with top-rated groups from over the state.

Vickie Morgan reigns as band queen of hearts

It was a red, white and hearts night, and the occasion marked the 13th annual band queen coronation. Following her court attired in white with a dash of Grizzly red, Queen Vickie Morgan was escorted by Mike Standrod to the center of a heart formation of band members. Here she was crowned by W. N. Shaver III, band director, as he placed the glittering tiara of hearts upon her head. The traditional ceremony served as a climax for a busy week of ticket sales for the contestants–Micra Callender, Linda Dye, Robyn Jones, Cheryl McClure and Teri Rosett, in addition to Vickie. The event raised $1,634 for the Northside program in instrumental music, which included almost 40 performances.

Three performances for the public were the Christmas concert, the spring concert and the band parent appreciation concert. The promenading talents of the band came to the fore in the many half-time programs they presented for football games, as well as the annual homecoming and Christmas parades. Activities included region and state festivals.

The Clubs-go-round

What is a club? Members, motion, motivation and money. Twenty-eight of these combinations make up the NHS club program. The Table Tennis Club, Northside Confederation of Black Students and the Future Business Leaders of America are newly formed clubs this year. FBLA is so new that it missed the yearbook. It was reactivated after a lapse of several years, its history on campus dating back 30 years. The Athenians did not form this term, after having been at NHS for 65 years. The Career Club also was not formed this year. The Inter-Club Council coordinates activities of the clubs, all of which are chartered by the Student Council. A combined clubs project was to raise money for the auditorium. This year the program had 1,096 members. Over a third of these members belonged to two or more clubs. These NHS students really knew the fun of the NHS club program.

Alpha Rho Tau

No hibernation for Big Red, now king of NHS

The swish of the brush, the smell of paint and the atmosphere of newness and fresh ideas. Another bear finished, a firstplace float, a new painting . . . this is all a part of membership in Alpha Rho Tau. The creation of Big Red, a life-size replica of a Grizzly for the homecoming parade and his formal presentation to the student body as NHS mascot was a spirit booster. Fund-raising projects included ceramic bears and key chains, the money going to the Auditorium Remodeling Project, the purchase of supplies and equipment and the redecoration of the art studio balcony. During the year, Alpha Rho Tau took sketching trips and an overnight journey to Kansas City. Officers included Jan Shopfner, president; Mickey Sellard, vice-president; Vicki Lee, secretary; Peggy Hachtmeyer, treasurer; and Mrs. Betty Plumlee, sponsor.

Cadet Club

Activities sponsored to finance cadet ball

In its second year as a chartered club at Northside, the JROTC Cadet Club spent a large amount of time and work to insure the success of the annual cadet ball. Many afternoons were used collecting thousands of pounds of paper and hundred of bottles, raising funds to support JROTC activities. Officers for this year were Jim Stilwell, president; David Deason, first vice-president; Jacky Ibison, second vice-president; Maurice Rapert, secretary; David Rackley, treasurer; and Mike Becker, sentinel. Cadet Club sponsor is Col. Choice R. Rucker, senior Army instructor.

Chess Club

Age-old game offers opportunity for relaxation

Fourteen Northsiders spent Tuesday afternoons away from it all. Away from the hustle and bustle of everyday life. Away from the noisy halls and the long cafeteria lines. Away from the confusion and chaos that fill the hallways from 8:20 till 3:05. Did they go to a far-off hideaway? No, to room 102 to play chess. Usual meetings consisted of absolute silence and concentration. No projects were discussed, no money was raised. This year's club officers were Mike Booth, president; Roy Fisher, vice-president; and Maurice Rapert, secretary-treasurer. Jerry Childers sponsored the group.

"Do you have a milk carton, pencil or ring you don't need?" No, this is not a call for rummage but the plea of a Columbian pledge during an initiation scavenger hunt. This year the Columbian group of 60 was served by Donna Bohanan, president; Ann Jones, vice-president; Teresa Price, secretary; and Janice Chitwood, treasurer. For homecoming, mums were adorned with red bows at the crack of dawn in a room filled with laborious yet not fully awake girls. The Columbian Club has also been involved annually in various other activities, as decorating Northside's Christmas tree, arranging a faculty Christmas tea and preparing singing valentines for February 14. New activities included plans for a party for underprivileged children, an ecology project and participation in the Auditorium Remodeling Project.

DECA

Money-making projects highlight school year

The third year's a charm! As the Distributive Education Club of America starts its third year at Northside, it has increased in popularity. Officers for the year included president, Harry McWater; vice-president, Mark Robertson; secretary, Cindy Asbell; treasurer, Cindy Perry; parliamentarian, Ronnie Keller; sponsors, Bernard Zanders and Mrs. Sandra Anderson. The purpose of this club is to develop future leaders in the field of marketing and distribution. Activities for the year included candy sales and the district, state and national leadership conference. The most colorful and special occasion of the year is the annual employer-employee banquet held in May.

Spanish Club

Honors group established

The Don Quijote Club charged full tilt into this year's windmill of activities with the creation of a chapter of the Sociedad Honoraria Hispanica at Northside. The first time the Spanish Club has taken part in a national honor society since 1968, 14 of the Spanish students qualified for membership in the "Sociedad," having maintained an honor average in the language for at least three semesters. Not only does the national society encourage high achievement, but it also furthers the Don Quijote Club's own goal of promoting interest in Spanish Study and life. The Northside Spanish students attended a Mexican folklore ballet in Little Rock, December 9, and staged a festival in mid-April called "A Pageant of the Americas," a tribute to Spanish culture. Officers were Russel Jones, Darrel Durbrow, Elizabeth Napier, Candace Davis. Sponsor is John Lenington, Spanish instructor.

Future Teachers of America

Year includes Appreciation, Senior Days

An apple on the desk, freshly picked flowers, corrected papers ready for distribution, a feeling of accomplishment at the end of the day—is this the destiny of the Future Teachers of America? In December, officers were installed and new members initiated in a candle-lighting ceremony. The FTA added to their yuletide cheer with a Christmas party at Across the Street. For Teacher Appreciation Day, sponsored by the Student Council, FTA supplied the student teachers. In the spring, the annual Senior Observation Day was held when the senior members were allowed to sit in on classes in local schools and observe teaching techniques of local instructors. Programs this year included a booth in the spring carnival, a panel talk by a group of student teachers, and a speech by a professor from the University of Arkansas. The officers, elected in September, included Linda Martin, president; Elizabeth Napier, vice-president; and Jo Lynn Riggs, secretary.

New regime takes control of l'Empire Francais

Cries of "Bienvenu, mademoiselle!" rang out as members of Le Cercle Francais greeted their new sponsor Miss Lenore Swearingen. Under this new regime, French students brought about not only the year-to-year projects of bicycling in the homecoming parade and singing Christmas carols "en francais," but also an "echange des idees" with students in France. Selecting French pen pals, each in accordance with his own interests, members found not only a way to practice their francais, but new friends as well.

"The purpose of the club is to stimulate the interest of students who are studying German," explains Frau Wilkinson, sponsor. Cathy Basham was president; Connie Sams, vice-president; and Nancy Naucke, secretary-treasurer. Projects ranged from a candy sale and canned goods drive to the winter and spring banquets traditionally held at Emmy's German Restaurant. Members provided a Christmas basket and toys for a needy family and donate money to charity.

Blaze serves as spark for yearly activities

Recipe for fun: Ingredients—One Hi-Y Club and 15 loads of wood. Instructions—Place wood on large sand bar. Mix in Grizzly Band music and season generously with Grizzly Brand spirit. This recipe for the annual homecoming bonfire was used by the Hi-Y Club to get their yearly activities "warmed up." The next day the homecoming court rode down Garrison Avenue in cars supplied and driven by Hi-Y members. Homecoming is annually followed by the Sweetheart Dance and Banquet, the canned food drive for the Salvation Army and door decoration contest, both held at Christmas, the slave auction, and to climax all, the Garvin Grizzly Awards to bring the year to a close. Carwashes and campouts are held throughout the year. Officers elected for '71-'72 were Skipper Long, president, Gary Davis, vice-president, Ray Gunselman, secretary-treasurer, and Mark Spears, chaplain. Sponsor was Franklin Blair, and Sweetheart was Cheryl Stephens.

Industrial Arts Club

Club hopes to send winning projects to fair

"To promote the Industrial Arts program at Northside and all over the state of Arkansas" is the purpose of the NHS Industrial Arts Club, according to James Neely, club sponsor. Fifty-two members had a common goal—to complete suitable projects to take to the annual state industrial arts fair in May in the hope of continuing Northside's winning traditions. Last year Northsiders won several awards at the state fair, including "best overall." Robert Rich was elected president; James Wilson, vice-president; Hrege Musset, treasurer; and Sonny White, secretary. The annual pie-eating contest is sponsored by the club as a money-making project, with a trophy going to the winner. The members also organize and advertise the tricycle race in the stadium, just after the track season begins. Twenty of the city's hottest tricycles come together in heavy competition for the title of top trike eliminator. This year's major activity was participation in the Auditorium Remodeling Project, the members expending their efforts along with approximately 15 other clubs in a school-wide program to raise funds for major rejuvenation of Northside's auditorium. The changes include the addition of an accoustical ceiling, carpet for the aisles, new house lights and foyer lights, new curtains and paint for the walls.

Interact

Club planning refurbishing of auditorium

"A small package with a lot of punch" is a good way to describe the Interact Club. With only 19 members, the club was instrumental in organizing and promoting the project to raise funds for the eventual remodeling of the auditorium. Through Interact efforts, participation in the project was school-wide. Besides sponsoring a dance with proceeds going to the remodeling project, the club devoted time and effort to the cause, collecting bottles for a bottle drive and cooperating with the various activities held by other groups. Interact annually holds the Mr. and Mrs. Ugly Contest, awarding Mr. Ugly and Mrs. Ugly sweatshirts to the winners. Interact is the campus-sized offspring of Rotary Club International, with James Neely as the sponsor. Roger Gibbs was this year's president, with Greg Blackman vice-president.

Junior Exchange

Beat Southside Week heads school activities

Exchanging service to the community and the school for the satisfaction of helping others is what Junior Exchange wants to accomplish during the school year. Under the leadership of president Johnny Alford, Junior Exchange got off to a running start with other clubs by entering a float in the homecoming parade and during the month of November sponsoring the door decoration contest for Beat Southside Week. Other activities included the basketball games between men teachers and the basketball team and the cheerleaders and women teachers and the Mr. and Mrs. Nose contest. Other officers included vice-president, Ricky Young; secretary, Wesley Coats; treasurer, Robert Smith; sponsor, Wayne Bledsoe. Pam Elkins was elected club sweetheart.

Main projects: backing team, compiling directory

In its 24th year, Northside's Key Club presented a varied range of activities. The chapter included service and entertainment projects to keep in good standing with Key Club International. Led by president Robert Allen, the club took on such activities as compiling the student directory, conducting the Mr. and Mrs. Valentine contest, having a car in the homecoming parade, decorating goal posts at football games, and holding educational programs on environment and human relations. Other officers were Steve Caver, vice-president; Jim Bird, secretary; and Monty Miller, treasurer. Earl Zechiedrich served as sponsor. Becky Yoes was elected to be the club's sweetheart.

Latin Club

Birthday cake for Rome climaxes celebration

Celebrating the 2,725th anniversary of the founding of Rome, the Latin Club brought to an end the fourth year of the club's existence. Through its activities, the Latin Club enables members to gain an appreciation of the classical civilizations of Ancient Greece and Rome as to the government, laws, literature, language and arts. This organization of approximately 30 students is a member of the Junior Classical League of America. With the assistance of sponsor Miss Cecilia Kaelin, president Mary McCartt led Latin Club members with Linda Skaggs, vice-president; Sandra Vaught, secretary; Ann Warmack, treasurer. Each year the organization celebrates Saturnalia which is the celebration of the end of harvest in honor of the god Saturn. Saturnalia corresponds to Christmas and is a time of merrymaking and the giving of gifts.

Library Club

Slogan of Book Week declares 'Read in '71

Activities for the Northside Library Club revolved around the National Book Week slogan, "Read in '71." An arrangement of books was on display in connection with this occasion. In early October the Library Club's miniature float placed third in the homecoming parade. Later in the month, several students attended the Student Librarians Association District Five meeting held in Ozark. A second meeting was in February, at which the Northside chapter was the host. Officers for the year included Rhonda Cantrell, president; Milly Ebone, vice-president; Glenda Graves, secretary-treasurer; Linda Crockett, reporter; Josephine Journey, historian; Cindy Gray, parliamentarian. At Christmas, the club stuffed monkeys made from socks for needy children.

Service and traditional projects sponsored

"Happy birthday to you!" was sung to Sponsor R. Earl Farnsworth at his birthday party, an annual celebration for the Leo Club members. Leo Club's main goal is to serve the school and community. Selling Halloween candy was one of the money-making projects planned this year. Officers were Tom Harmon, president; Larry Yocum, vice-president; Tink Amon, secretary, and Rickey Robertson, treasurer.

Club activities include National Math Contest

Darkness prevails except for the white light on the screen, people drift to their seats, chairs move, somebody whispers, "What's an Archimedes?"—and another meeting of Mu Alpha Theta has begun. To be a member of MATh, a student must have completed or be enrolled in a fifth semester of higher mathematics. He must also have a minimum average of three point in mathematics along with a minimum three point accumulative average. The officers, elected in September, included Carl Wikstrom, president; Terry Sass, vice-president; Lucia Hawkins, secretary; David Rackley, treasurer; and Joyce Young, parliamentarian. This year, for the 23rd time, Mu Alpha Theta again participated in the National Math Contest held in the spring.

New club sponsors auction and beauty contest

"Going once, going twice, sold to the highest bidder." These were the sounds coming from the first money-making project held by the Northside Confederation of Black Students December 10 in the Northside cafeteria. NCBS instituted the "Miss Black Heritage" contest for the yearbook to complement the "Bruin Beauty" competition. Officers for the year included Denise Walker, president; Charles Vann, vice-president; Carrie Smith, recording secretary; Delores Triplett, treasurer; John Isom and Sissy Hardwick, sergeants-at-arms. Sponsors are Mrs. Mary Julia Head, F. M. Ware and Jerry Johnson. This new club's 47 members ended the year with the Negro History Week faculty coffee and the third annual Negro History assembly in February.

National Honor Society

34 new initiates inducted for superior achievement

In an evening candlelight ceremony held in February, 34 initiates were inducted into the National Honor Society. Speeches, on the requirements for membership, were presented by Carl Wikstrom on "Scholarship," David Johnson on "Character," Darla Amos on "Service" and Cathy Basham on "Leadership." This year something new was added to the program, the "Fairview Report," given by Tim Smith, on the pilot program at Fairview Elementary School, where members of the National Honor Society assist teachers. Seniors and juniors must have a 3.50 grade average, and sophomore candidates a 3.75 average. Sponsor is R. Earl Farnsworth, principal. There were 27 returning members.

Partners in Christ

Guest speakers discuss inspirational subjects

"Who is Jesus? What is the relationship between my life and His?" Northside's only religiously backed club, Partners in Christ, discussed this and similar questions of a spiritual nature. Regular meetings featured guest speakers such as the Reverend Don Bynum and Kenny Shipman. The main project of the year was "Campus Blitz," a religious survey of the campus. Another project was buying books of a religious nature for the library. Officers were Terri Rosett, president; Mike Standrod, vice-president; Cheryl McClure, secretary; Vickie Bledsoe, treasurer; Darrell Durbrow, parliamentarian and Scripture reader. Ronnie Ashley was sponsor.

Para-Medical

Club informs members about health careers

What club would Northside students want to belong to if they were interested in any branch of medicine as a future career? The Para-Medical Club was organized for this purpose. With guest speakers and films, the club informs its members of a range of careers related to medicine. In the spring, the club attends the annual Health Careers Day held at the municipal auditorium for career information. Officers for the '71-'72 school year were Cathy Nelson, president; Cynthia Broyles, vice-president; Ann Warmack, recording secretary; Barbara Smith, roll call secretary; Becky Hays, treasurer; and Linda Raymond, program committee chairman. Mrs. Elizabeth Winford is the club sponsor. Guest speakers this year included Lewis Sparks, Dr. Calvin Bradford and Mrs. Jean Favell.

Quill and Scroll

Initiates recite 'poetry' in traditional ceremony

Northside's chapter of Quill and Scroll organized in October with five returning members and seven initiates. To become a member of this international honor society for high school journalists, a student must be in the top third of his class, be a junior or senior and have contributed substantially to the Northside publications. An additional requirement of the Northside chapter is 50 lines of original "poetry" to be read at initiation. The year began with a back-to-school picnic with Principal R. E. Farnsworth showing his slides of Hearst Castle. In October, initiation took place with initiates dressed in Halloween costumes. Jan's Restaurant was the location for the club's Christmas party at which members were presented with membership pins or charms. At the beginning of second semester, six more students were initiated by reading their "poetry" to the Valentine Court of Hearts.

New group organized for afternoon games

Newly organized this year, the Table Tennis Club got off to a swinging start. Approximately 30 members arranged to play their favorite sport nearly every afternoon with a table set up in room 226. Officers were Richard Gordon, president; James Phillips, vice-president; Cal Pearce, secretary-treasurer. Sponsors for the club were Jerry Johnson and Earl Zechiedrich. School-wide tournaments were held in December.

Sock and Buskin

Drama students present fall, spring comedies.

Sock and Buskin's annual plays made up their year. Cast for "Visit to a Small Planet" November 5-6 and 11 included Tink Amon, Kreton; Chris Brown, Roger Spelding; Molly White, Reba; Hal Adams, Conrad Mayberry; Bob Cloninger, General Tom Powers; John Cook, General's aide; David Tidwell, MP; Reggie Moore, Delton 4; Michael Deranger and Michael Williams, two television men; James Goodman, assistant director.

"Up the Down Staircase" presented April 14-15, is the story of a teacher, Sylvia Barrett, who finds herself teaching in a school of underprivileged teenagers. "The star of the play," said Mrs. Stone, "is the classroom and the teacher acts as a catalyst." The cast included 30 members, with Marci Smith playing Miss Sylvia Barrett.

Cast for dramatization of "The Three Little Pigs": Three pigs—Bruce Pickett, Chris Brown, David Tidwell; mother pig—Ellen Stubbs; pot—David Mobley; wolf—Bob Cloninger; houses—Linda Grammont, Emma Brown, Debbie Tompos, Marsha Law, Joan Houston, Melissa Spears; narrators—Sherrel Taylor, Lucy Fletcher. Above: J. Thespians

Off stage or on, hours earn honor

One hundred hours!! That's the requirement to become a member of the International Thespians. For some people that's many hours and hard work just to become a member of a club, but not to those Sock and Buskin members who completed 100 hours to earn the honor. Doubling their membership to 31 since last year, Thespians started off with participation in "Visit to a Small Planet" presented November 5-6 and as a benefit performance November 11 to help raise money for the Auditorium Remodeling Project. The spring production was "Up the Down Staircase" presented April 14-15. Officers were Mike Williams, president; Reggie Moore, vice-president, Chris Brown, treasurer; Cheryl Stephens and Mollie White, public relations directors; Mrs. Bob Stone, sponsor.

Play production begins backstage with the Thespians members working many hours before the final performance. At the lights are Gary Davis and Bruce Pickett and at the tape recorder and script are James Goodman and Micheal Williams.

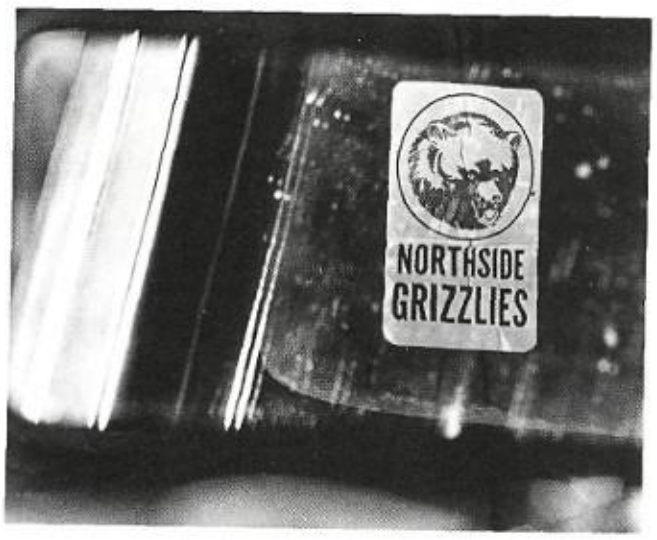
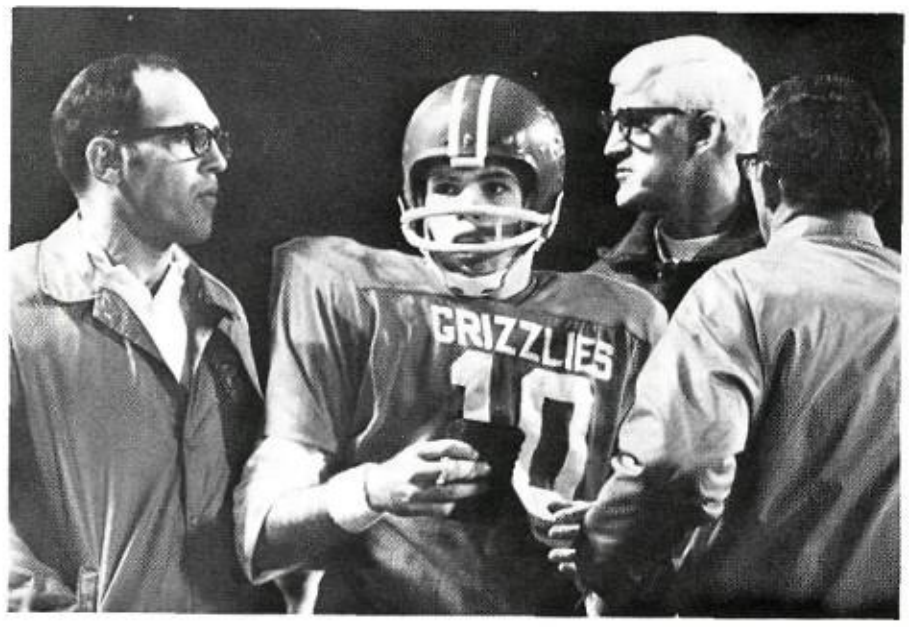
Chapter six

Go, No. 1 Bears!

Sports in Grizzly territory—a spectator sport + Super Bear + red and white + "Smile You're in Bear Country" + action + happiness is being a Grizzly + homecoming + senior spirit + junior spirit + sophomore spirit + faculty spirit = A number one Bear.



Northside, known throughout the state as a dedicated and successful football team, proved themselves worthy of wearing the label of champions as they brought their record to 11-1 for the 1971 season. Starting the season ranked number one, the Bears held this slot until they were defeated by the Hall High Warriors in Little Rock. The Stuttgart Ricebirds, whom the Bears had defeated in the season opening game, rose to fill the vacated slot. In the final press rankings, December 1, the Bears regained the number one position. "The Bears had a tough 12-game schedule," summarized Coach Charles Presley. Starting September 2, the season went straight through to November 19, the annual final clash with Southside. "We played the number one team in Oklahoma, Muskogee, and the number one team in Arkansas, Stuttgart, and the defending state champions from last year, North Little Rock," added Coach Presley, "and we won."



When Bears get the ball, they'll run to win

"All of our games and victories this season have been a team effort, both defensive and offensive," stated Coach Charles Presley at the close of the 1971 season. The first meeting ever between Stuttgart and Northside brought the Bears their first win, 14-12. Johnny Alford scored what proved to be the winning touchdown with an 85-yard kickoff return against the Ricebirds. A passing attack led by Greg Blackman and Lee Lewis sparked a 35-14 win over Marianna. Calling it a team effort, Coach Presley said, "The Grizzlies showed great improvement." The Grizzlies opened conference play against El Dorado, with the defense keeping the Wildcats at bay all night. The engagement with the Pine Bluff Zebras was a conference game won in enemy territory. A rest from conference action saw Springdale defeated 35-7. The Bulldogs were held until the fourth quarter for a first down. Homecoming was next, against another new conference opponent, Little Rock Catholic. An overflow crowd watched the battle between the number one and number two teams in Arkansas, as the Bears hammered out a 13-7 victory.

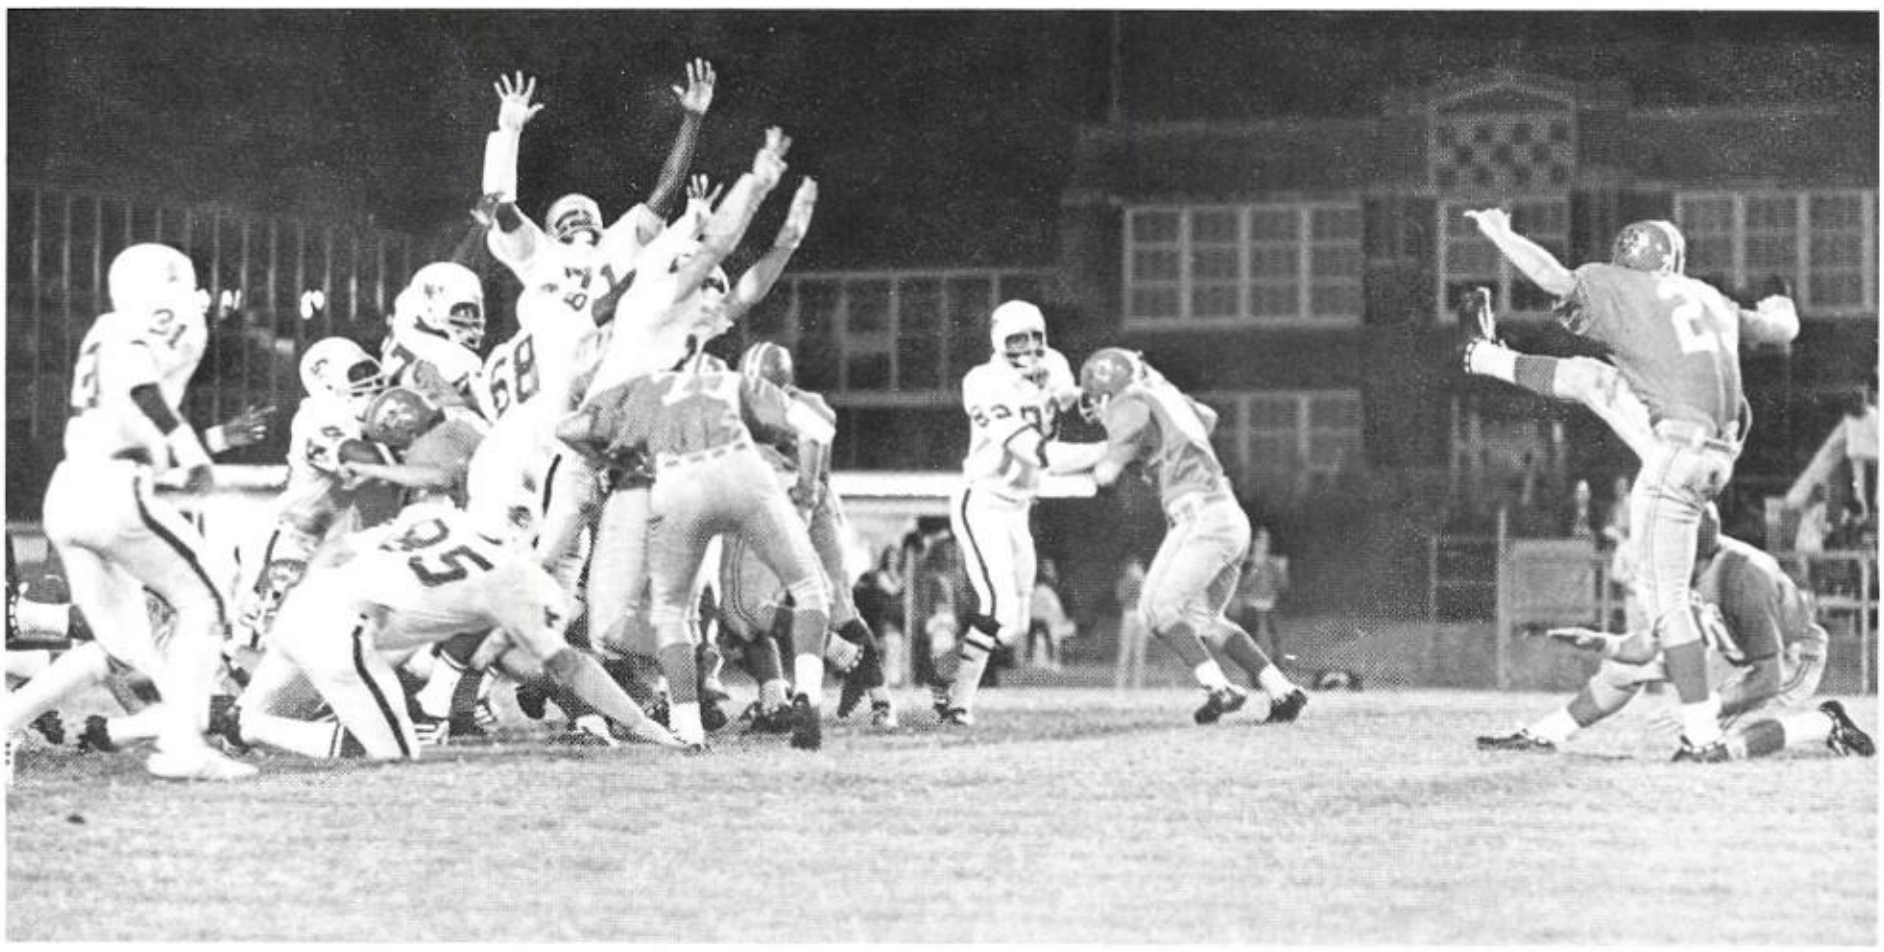
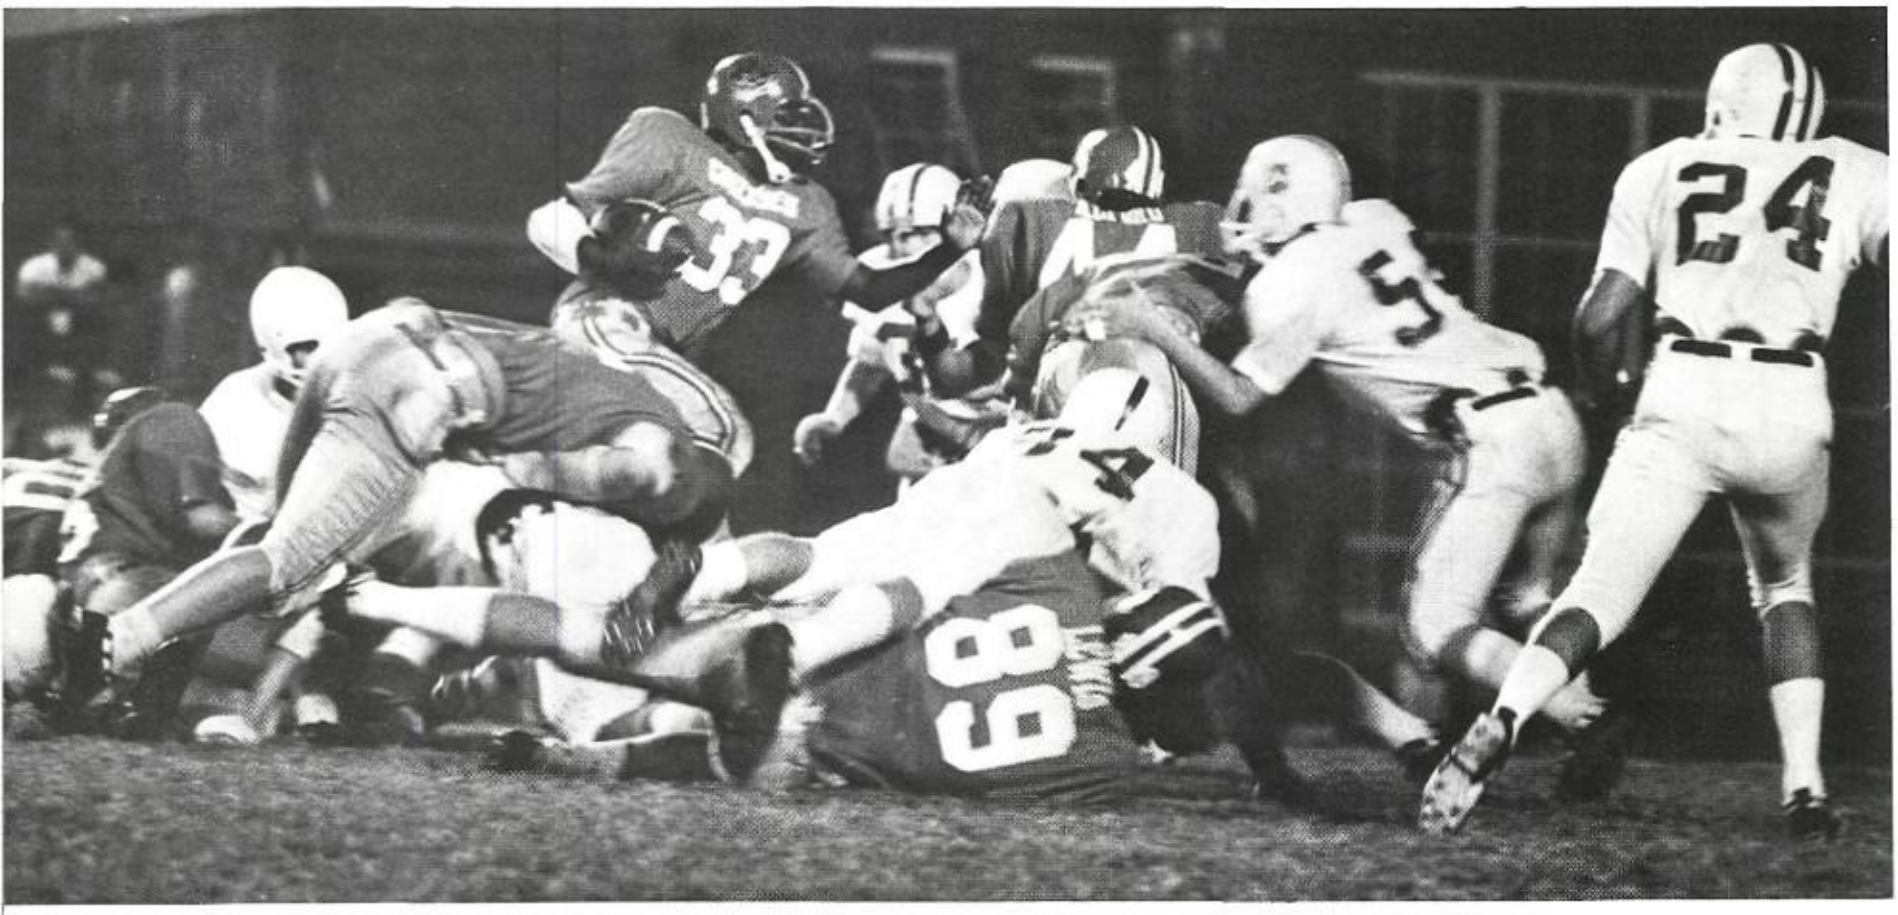
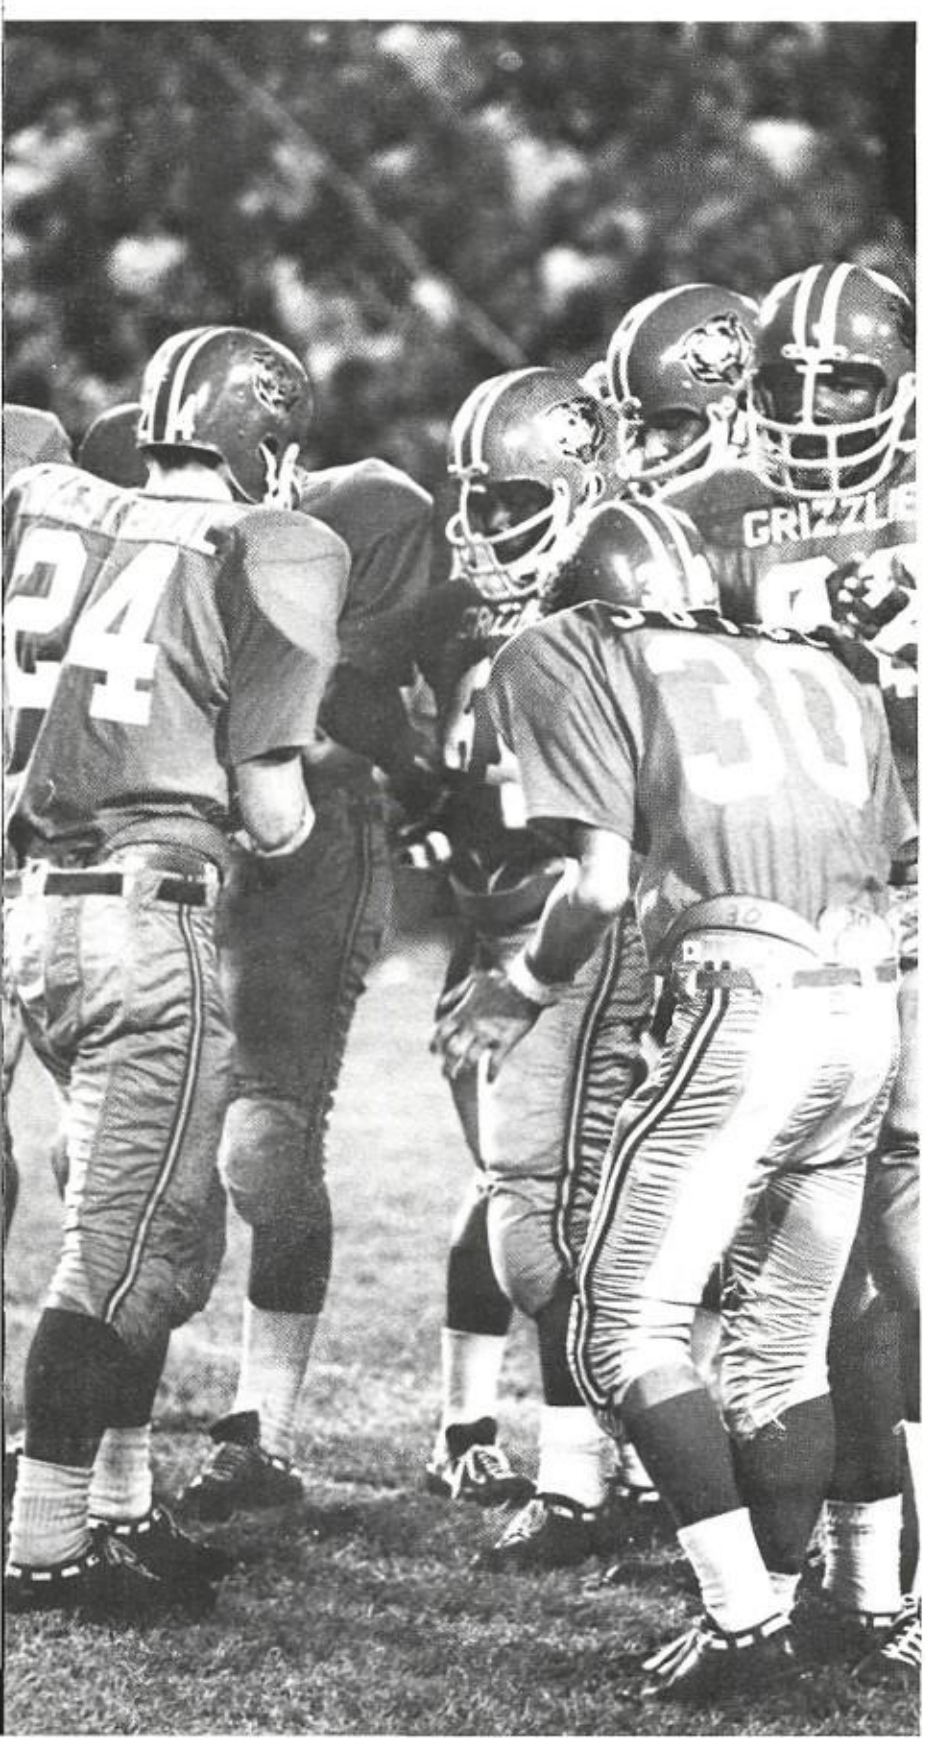
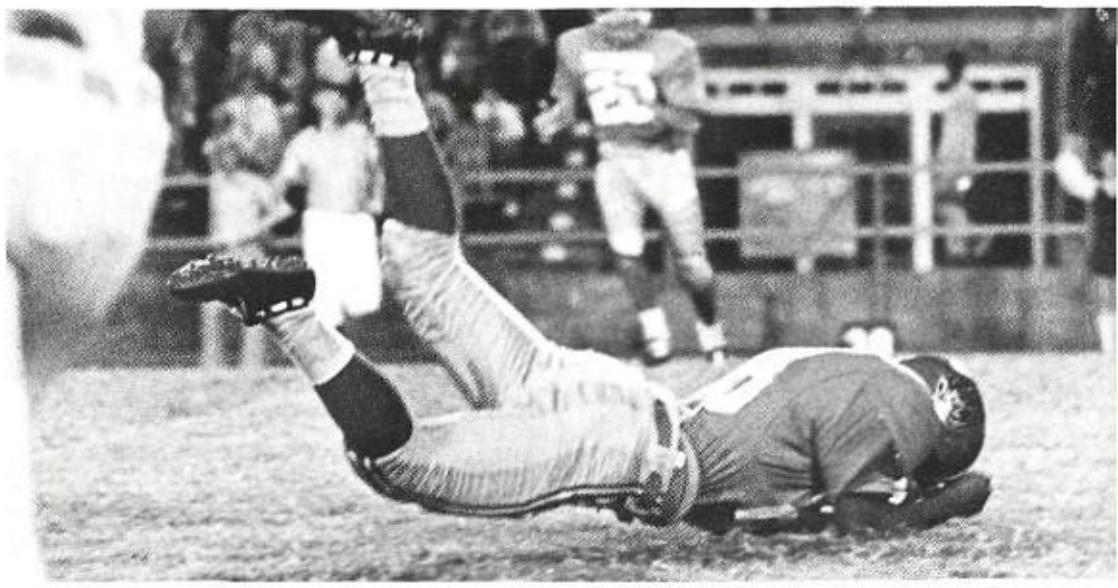
Defense shoulders the load: offense moves the ball









With a conference win over North Little Rock, the Bears continued their 7-0 winning streak. October 22 was the Border Bowl clash between the number one teams in both Arkansas and Oklahoma. Northside and Muskogee gave the fans their money's worth with the Bears showing the winning side of the score, 20-7. Running from the wishbone formation, the Roughers could only wish. The Grizzly defense again showed why Northside was number one. This was all too good to be true, as Northside fell to the Hall High Warriors, with Hall using their monster defense. Every Hall-Northside game since 1966 has been decided by only one touchdown, and this game wasn't, with the score an uneven 21-7. The Bruin kicking game was vital to the 35-14 win over Little Rock Central. With their record 9-1, the Bears faced North Little Rock, defending state champions, in their final conference clash. With a score of 27-7, the record was brought to 10-1. Meeting the annual season-ending Southside Rebels, the 1971 schedule was brought to a close with the score 34-0. The Bears were announced the number one team on December 1.

Cubs post 7-1 season; only loss to Southside

Running well and passing adequately, the Cubs scored often as they coasted to a 7-1-0 record under the tutelage of Coach Tom Crovella. The defense, mostly sophomores, shut out five opposing teams including the last three. While scoring a total of 213 points, the Northsiders limited their opponents to a mere 26 for the season. Only once in the eight-game schedule did an opponent score more than one touchdown. In that game, the Northsiders defeated the Johnny Rebs of Southside 15-13 in their second meeting. "The strength of the defensive unit was the linebacking and secondary units," stated Coach Crovella. With a punishing ground game, the Cubs were able to move the ball without going to the air with the pass. By passing the ball sparingly, the offense prevented costly turnovers from interceptions. In short, the Cubs used a grind-it-out ball control attack that made few mistakes. Summarizing, Coach Crovella said, "After a season of high school play behind them, the future of the Northside varsity looks bright with many outstanding sophomore prospects."

After a year of miniature floats in Mayo-Thompson Stadium, the annual homecoming parade returns to Garrison Avenue with noisy red and white.

Homecoming is a time for bands playing, people cheering, fire blazing, posters waving–a wonderful fun time. This year the week's festivities began on Monday with "Shake the Rockets Day" and continued with Tuesday designated as "Kiddie Day," Wednesday as "Tie Day" and Thursday as "Smile Day." Thursday night the Hi-Y club sponsored the annual bonfire, held at Lature Landing, one of the biggest yet, blazing up into the sky with 15 loads of wood.

Friday, "Red and White Day," began with the pep assembly in the stadium, highlighted by the announcement of the winners of the "Mr. and Mrs. Cute Kid Contest" and the "Mr. and Mrs. Smile Contest." The sophomores won the Spirit Stick for the first time. The parade in the afternoon on Garrison Avenue included three large floats, three small ones, 35 cars, the marching JROTC, the marching Grizzly band, costumed Sock and Buskin members and the French club on bicycles. First prize in the large float category was won by the seniors with their "camera" on "Smile You're in Bear Country." Small float winner was ART's "Big Bear."

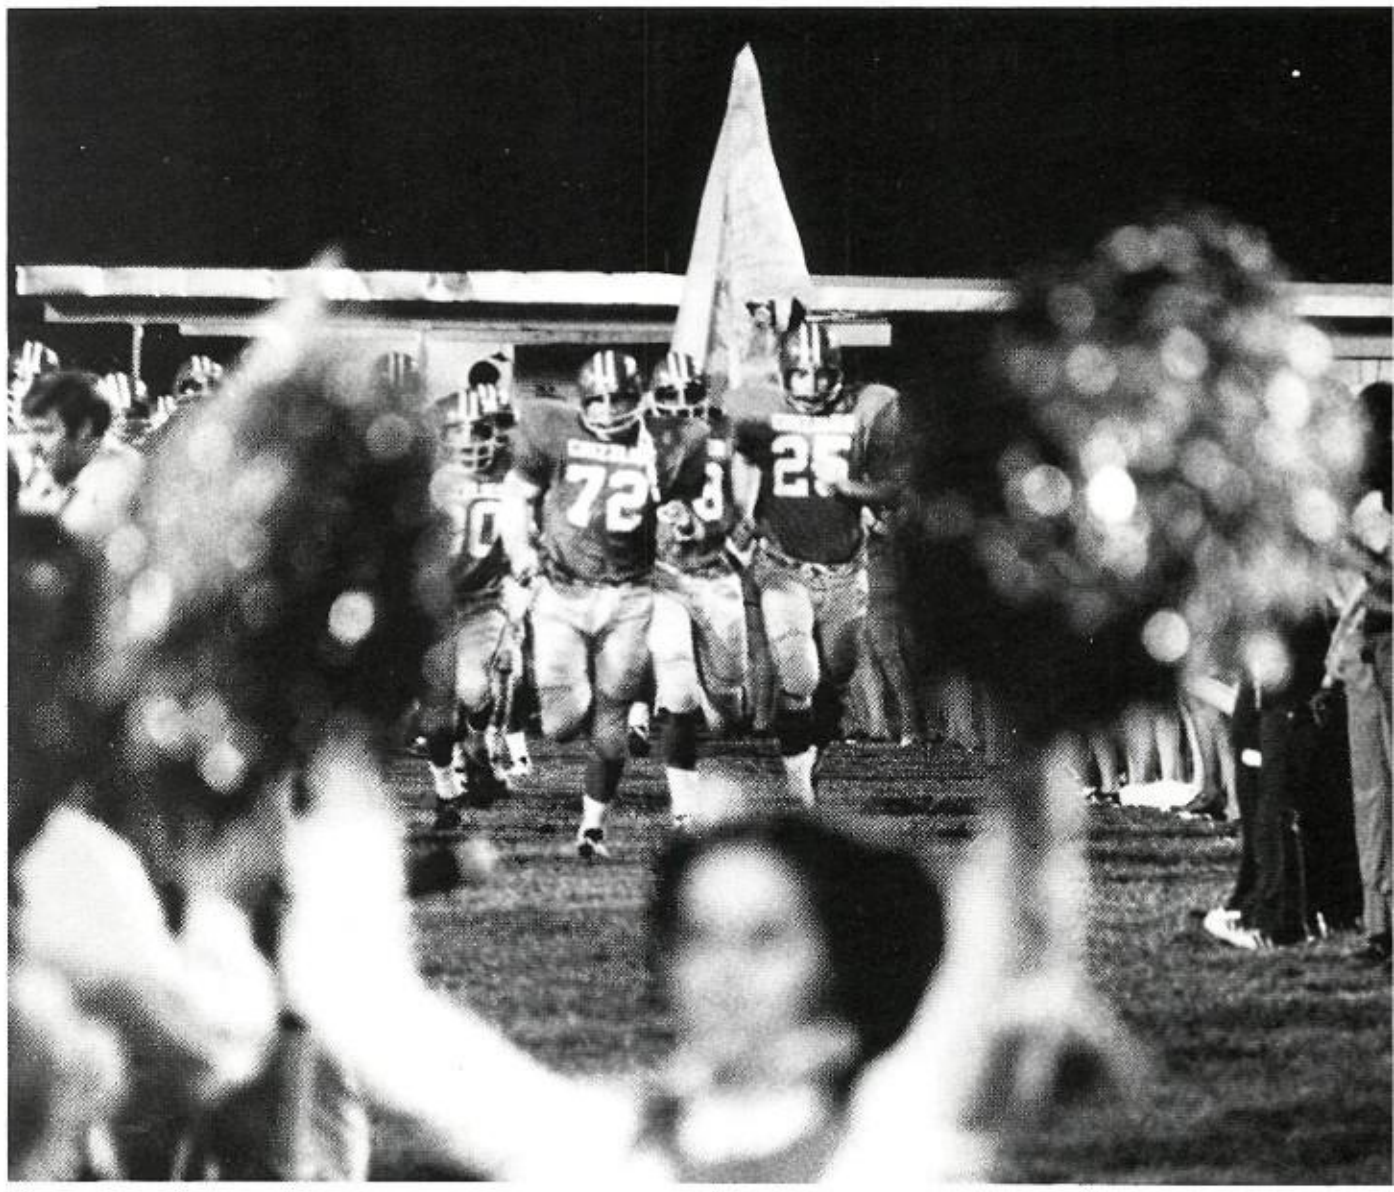
Shelagh reigns over Smile Land



Grizzly spirit could be heard blocks away, and the game hadn't even started yet. That's the way it was on homecoming night at the climax of the week's festivities. Before the start of the game, the Pep Squad formed a "football" on the field. Inside this formation, Queen Shelagh O'Neal, escorted by Collier Pierce and Ricky Young, was crowned 1971 homecoming queen by R. Earl Farnsworth. Queen Shelagh and her court then reigned over the remainder of the homecoming activities.

Opponents for the number one ranked Grizzlies were the number two ranked Little Rock Catholic Rockets. At the end of the four quarters, the Grizzlies had again proved their power by de-fusing the Rockets 13-7. Afterwards the team, the court and members of the student body, entertained by Rock Bottom, met in the cafeteria to celebrate their homecoming victory.

Grizzlies post 16-12 season; Cubs finish 25-1

Facing the most extensive rebuilding season since 1966, the Northside Grizzlies rebounded with a 16-12 season record and a 7-7 slate in the tough AAAA conference. Only one starter, Ivan Jordan, and four other lettermen–Tommy Carson, Steve Caver, Greg Blackman and John Isom–returned from a squad that finished number one in Arkansas with a record of 23 wins and only 3 losses in 1971. Of the 28 games, 13 were decided by seven points or less, 10 games decided in the last two minutes of play. The defeat of highly ranked Fayetteville, and the defeat of the number one ranked Little Rock Central Tigers by three points and the three victories over cross-town rival Southside were highlights of the season.

While the Grizzly varsity was suffering its ups and downs, the Cubs breezed through their season, 25-1. Their only loss came on a six point defeat at the hands of the Little Rock Hall Warrior B team. This year's Cub team was composed of all sophomores with the exception of two juniors. Several saw varsity play.

Basketball team chooses queen from senior maids

"Ladies and gentlemen, Northside proudly presents the 1972 homecoming queen, Becky Meyers, and her court." Bill Bardrick, assistant principal, crowned the queen during a ceremony preceding the game between the Northside Bears and the El Dorado Wildcats February 11. During home room voting, girls from each class were nominated. After ballots were prepared by the Student Council, classes voted for only their own maids. The maids were Paula Arnold, Claudette White, Linda Ferguson—seniors; Sarah Basham, Karen Woolbright, Nancy Naucke—juniors; Betsy Nigh and Joanne Cary—sophomores. After the maids were elected, the basketball team chose the queen from the four senior maids during a secret vote. The name of the winner was kept a secret until homecoming night. The theme for this year's homecoming was "Not to be a Bear is unbearable."

Super Bear dances No. 1 Grizzlies to state title

Who is it that always saves the day? Who is always there when the Grizzlies need him? It's not a Wildcat, it's not a Rebel, it's SUPER BEAR. Over the past few years, Super Bear has become known state-wide as the Northside dancing bear. During football season Super Bear (Ricky Young) danced the Bears to the state's top spot. From September's 100 degree pep rally to November's rain-soaked field, Super Bear was always there to say "Go, Bears Go!" and "We're No. 1!"

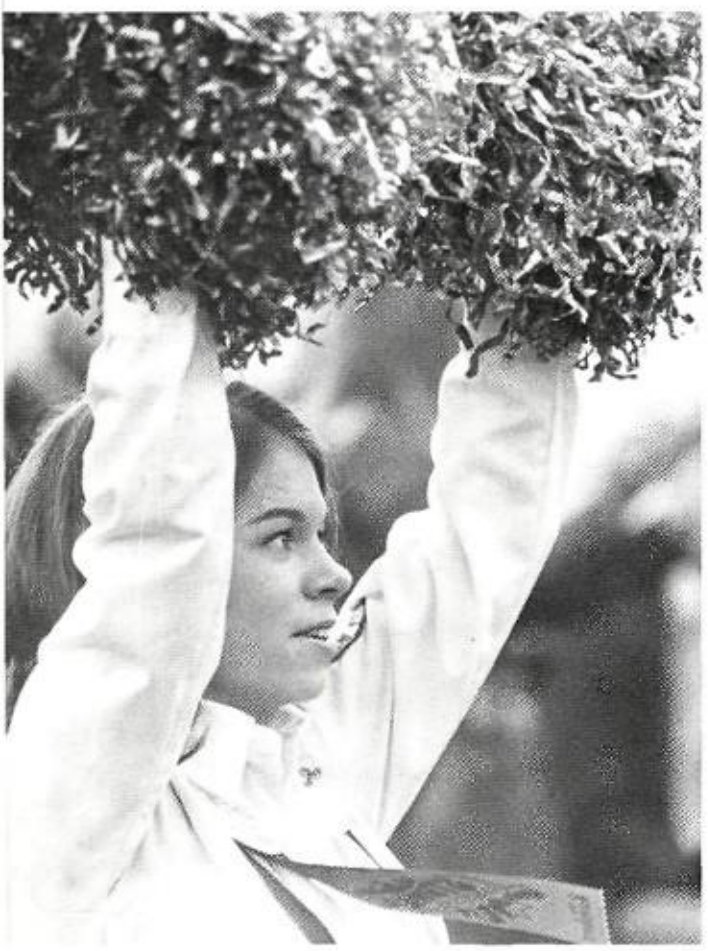
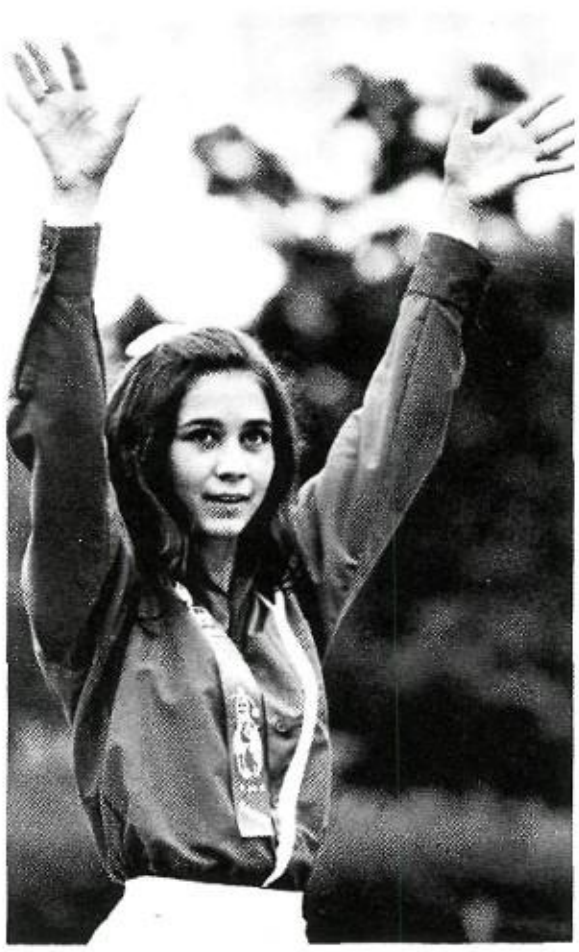
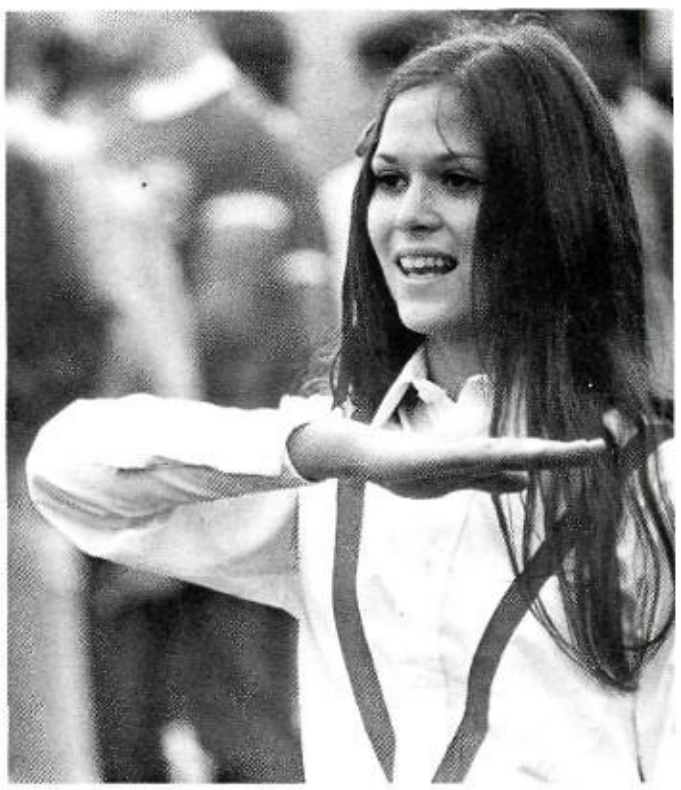
"This year the "N" Club was changed to include every athlete in the department," stated former coach and "N" Club sponsor Charles Presley. "This change is significant in that sophomores and athletes who do not letter still have the distinction of belonging." The main objective of the club is to boost athletics at Northside. Officers elected in September were Jackie Baker, president; Art Capehart, vice-president; and Olish Perkins, treasurer. Upon his resignation, the club presented Coach Presley with a wrist watch. A weekend at Lake Tenkiller is the closing activity of the year for the "N" Club.







Grizzly girls growl for bigger better Bears

"We're from Northside, couldn't be prouder. If you can't hear us, we'll yell a little louder!" The cheerleaders' activities revolve around football, basketball and track with their main goal being to boost the spirits of the students and fans in supporting the "mighty Grizzlies." Their year started in assembly in May '71 when they were elected from 19 candidates–Lynn Coats ('72), head cheerleader, Paul Arnold ('72), Jayne Gates ('72), Claudette White ('72), Rosie Kesner ('73), Sarah Basham ('73), Judy Townley ('73), Pam Elkins ('73). National Cheerleading Clinic was next on their agenda, held in Cocoa Beach, Florida, during the summer vacation. At clinic, the Northsiders received the second over-all rating. Football, basketball and track brought about practice, sign painting, pep assemblies, magazine sales and bus trips. At the end of the year, tryouts were held at which eight more girls became the leaders of the cheering students and spirited fans who know "It's GREAT to be a Grizzly!"

Clubbers boost spirits by cheers and chants

"Hey! Hey! Look out! The Bears are on the loose!" And following close behind are 149 girls dressed in red and white cheering the Bears on to victory. Being the most spirited organization at Northside, it is the Pep Club's responsibility to give the Grizzlies their full support at all home games and out-of-town games when possible. This includes supporting the Grizzlies not only through the victorious times, but also through times of defeat. Miss Marjorie Beall and Miss Carolyn Ramsey sponsor the organization with Shelagh O'Neal, president; Linda Ferguson, vice-president; Vicki Lee, senior leader and Nancy Naucke, junior leader. Included in the Pep Club activities are program selling at all home games, candy sales, magazine sales, bus trips to out-of-town games, with the year ending by tryouts for cheerleaders. Pep Club is their name and cheering is their game.

Drill Team

Red and white routines promote Grizzly spirit

January 14 was a red-letter day with the debut of Northside's first girls drill team at the Northside–Charleston basketball game. Arrayed in the traditional red and white, at half time the girls went through their routines of peeling-off, snapping, lifting knees and pointing toes. Coached by Cheryl Stephens, the 22 members practice every day after school. As the team was organized late in the year, only three performances could be scheduled. Members expect to attend a drill team clinic in the summer. Officers are Karen Wheeler, captain; Rhonda Lee, first lieutenant; Joanne Cary, second lieutenant; and Carla Gilyard, senior squad leader. Mrs. Jim Cotton is sponsor. Only members of the Pep Club in good standing are eligible for tryouts.

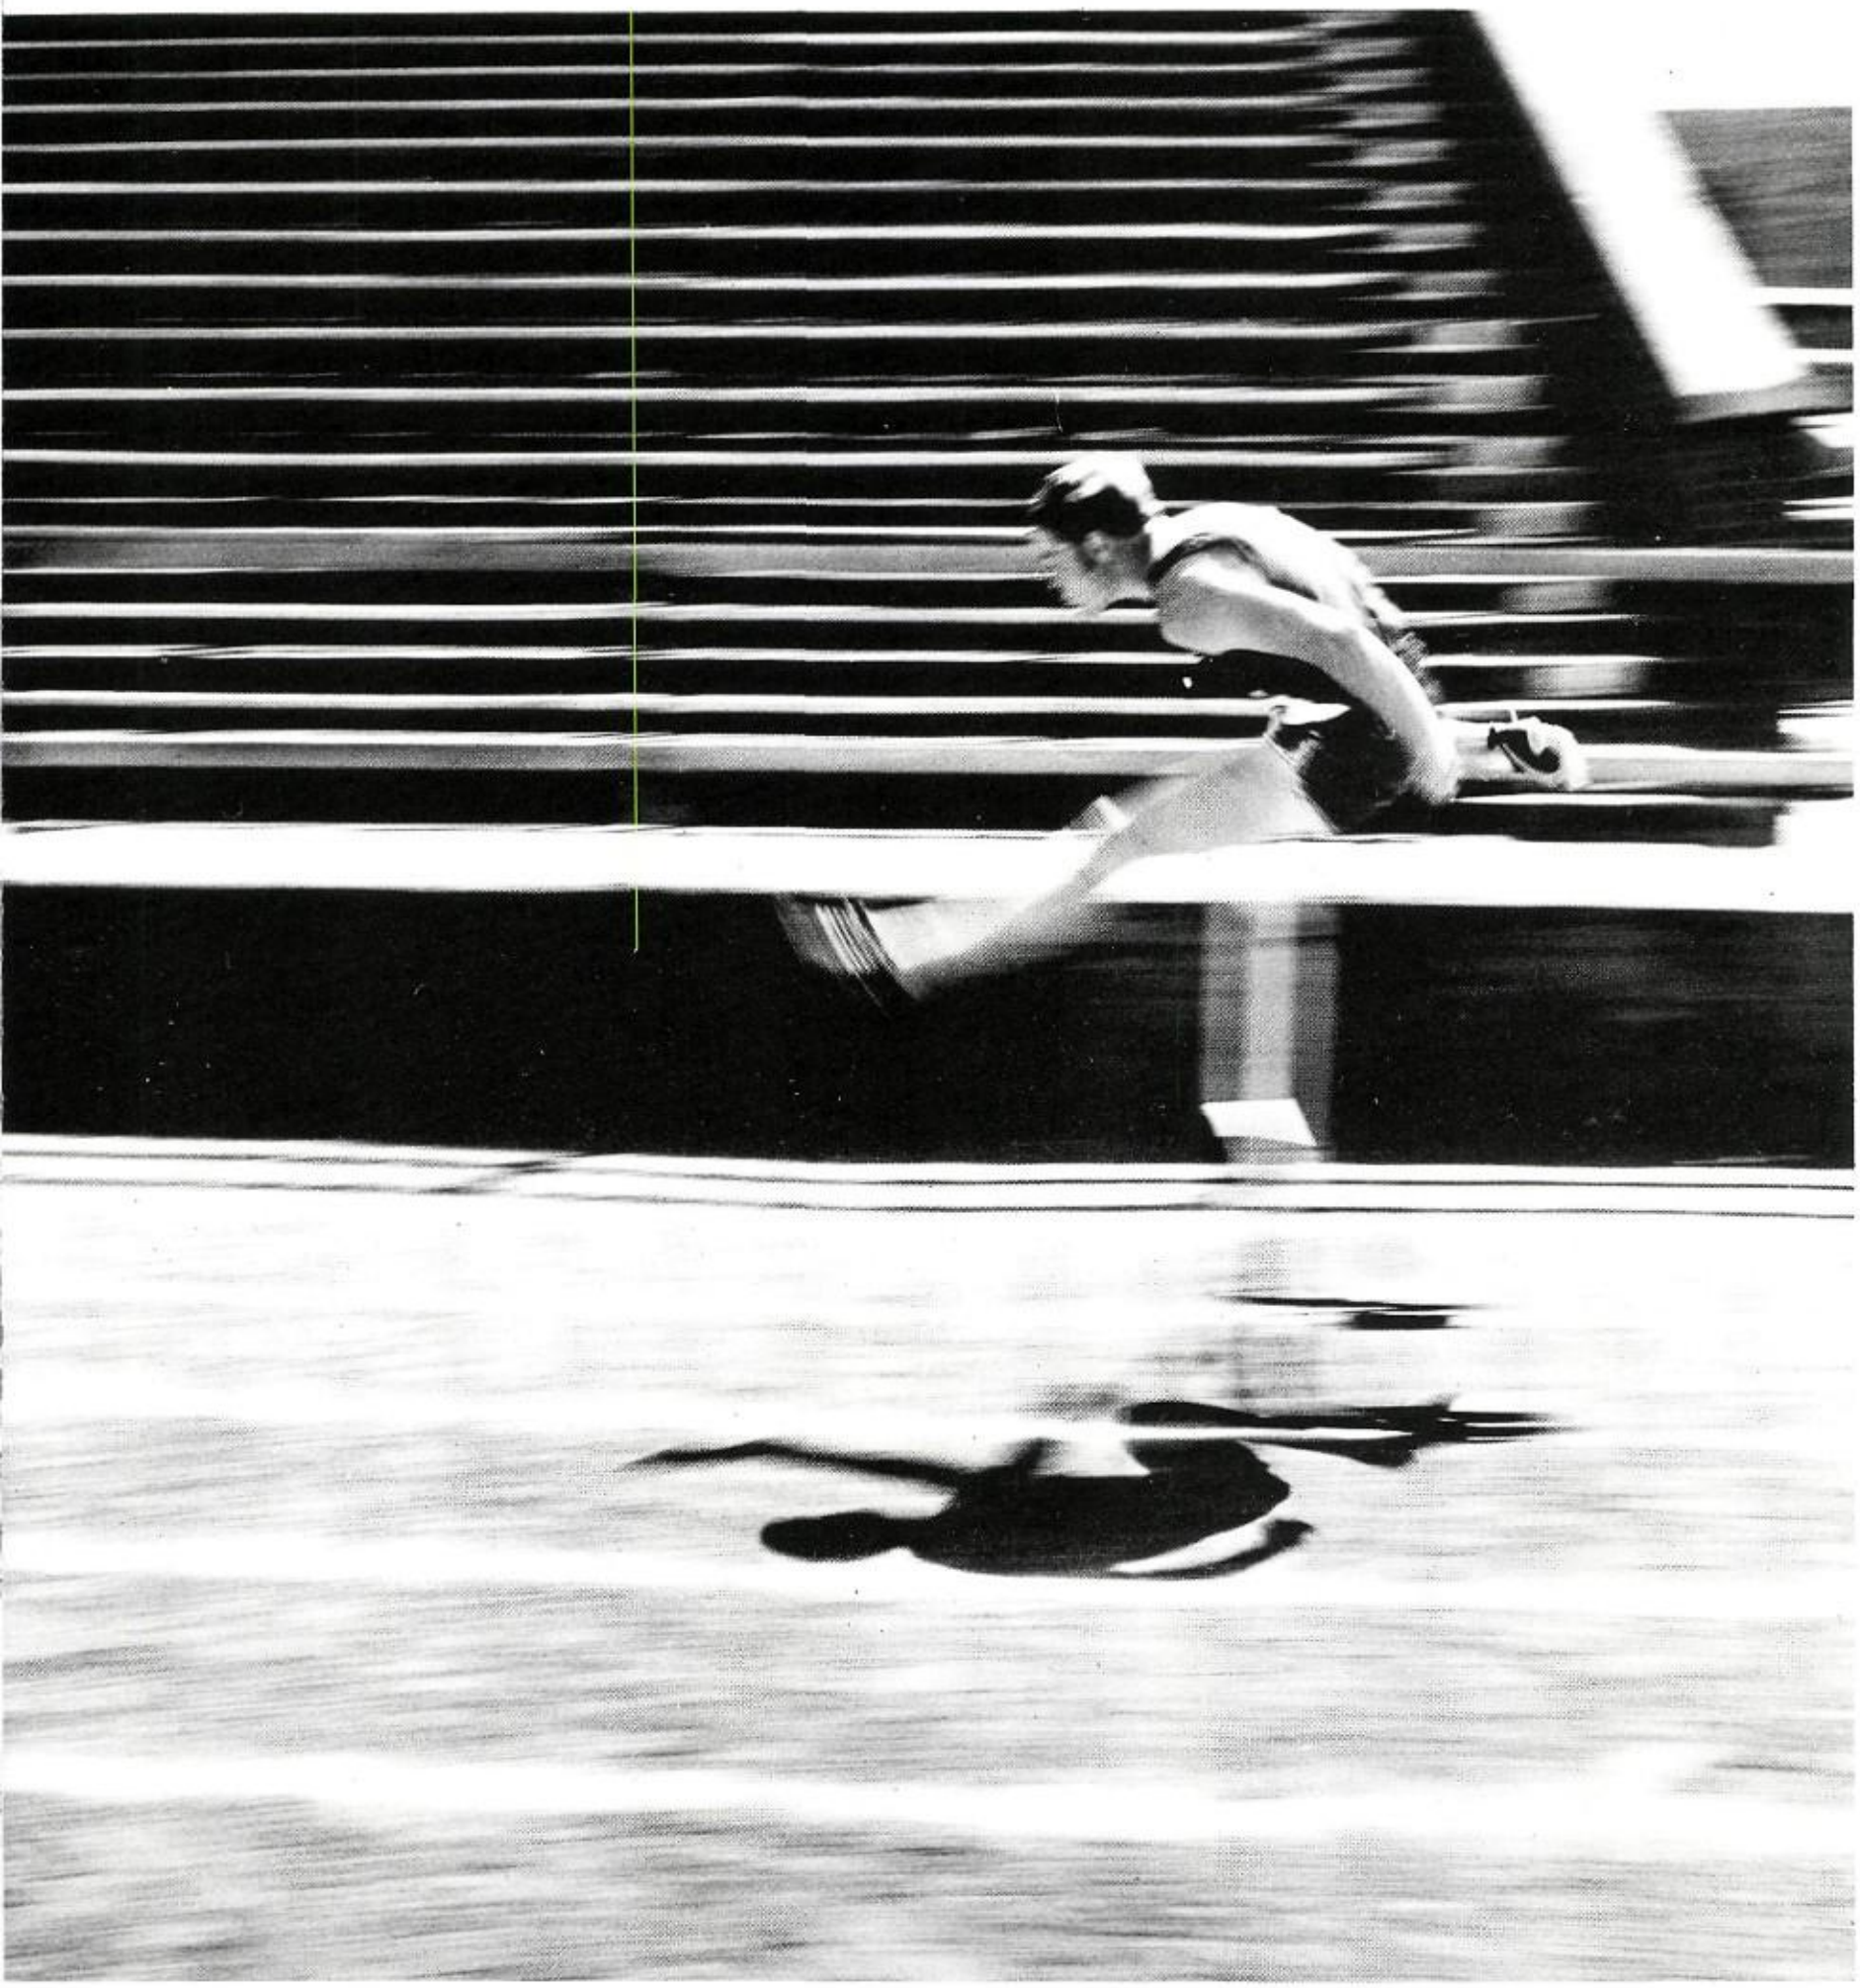
Depth in field events anchors '72 track team

Art Capehart

Jim Birch

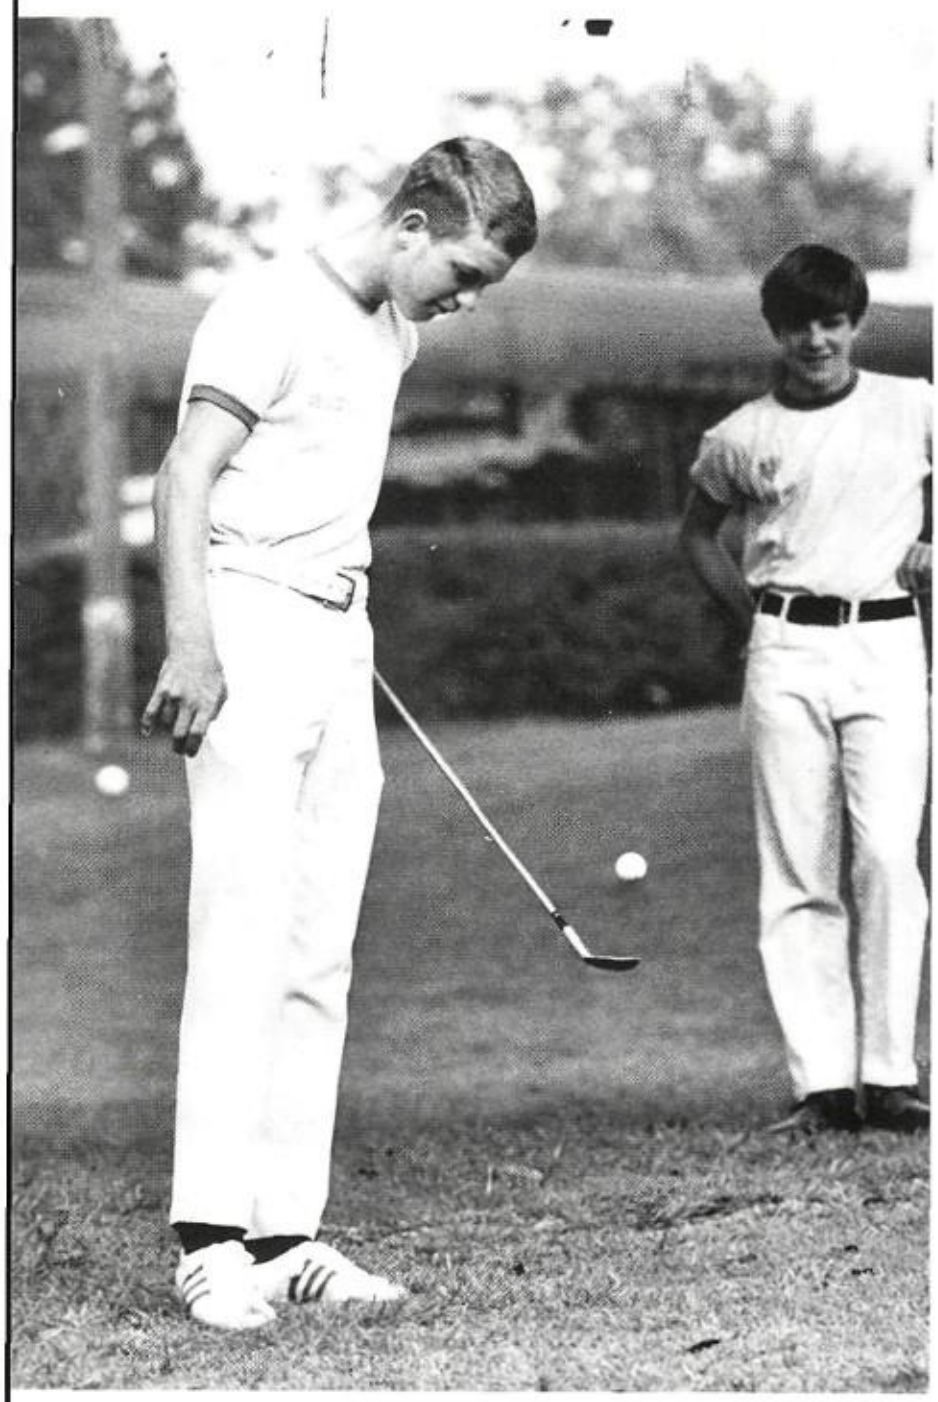
Daryl Revelle

Lee Lewis



"Although we don't have the extremely fast sprinters this season, the great depth we have in field events should carry us through," stated Head Track Coach Tom Parker at the beginning of the season. Twelve lettermen returned from the team of last year that won eight meets before finishing third in the state meet. The 1972 team, consisting mostly of seniors, were definitely stronger in field events. Lee Lewis and Art Capehart were consistent winners in the shot put and discus events. Jim Birch and Roger Carter reached heights of six feet and better in the high jump. Mike Weeks backed up the seniors.

Daryl Revelle was the Bears' man in the pole vault, and Rick Williams provided depth. Laland Booth was the top sprinter, as he ran the 100 and 200-yard dashes. Johnny Alford and Steve Shepherd also came in with times of 10.2 in the 100. Jon Fiehl and John Bice had good times all season as mile and relay runners. Carter also ran the high hurdles. Remaining lettermen were Tommy Cheyne, Steve Joyce and Olish Perkins. The Grizzlies competed in three invitationals during the regular season. Northside's meet was held April 8. The team also was in two state meets before the meet of champs on May 21.



Golf is for fun as well as sport where the participants compete individually for team goals . . . Bo Baumeister, Kevin Wear, Marty Goins.

Veteran golfers provide experience, leadership

Defending their number one state ranking, the Grizzly golf team entered their second season of AAAA golf competition with three starters and three lettermen on a total roster of 11 players. The nucleus of a veteran starting unit was formed by Bo Baumeister, who finished third in the Junior All-American Golf Tournament, Bill Agler and Marty Goins. The Northside golfers posted a 13-1-1 record in 1970 with the only loss suffered at the hands of Siloam Springs. After the regular season, the Bears swept through the AAAA golf tournament to return home as champions from Little Rock in the first state-wide AAAA golf tournament.

For the golfers, the season begins in the summer with daily practices and summer tournaments. Other pre-season activities include weight lifting and form practice. The year's slate of opponents includes annual matches with Alma, Fayetteville, Greenwood, Southside, St. Anne's and Van Buren.

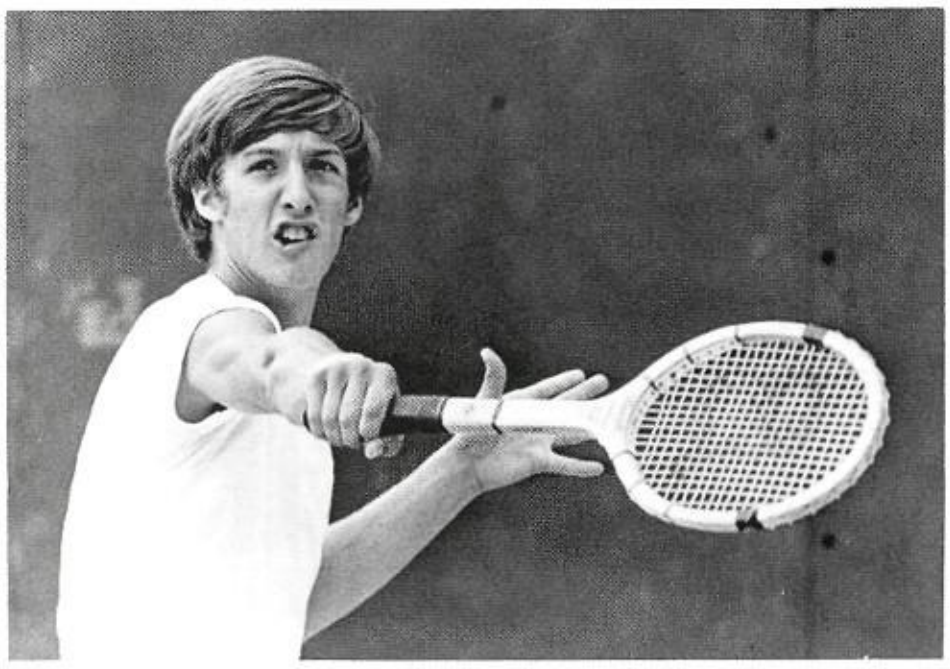
Organization for tennis gets the ball rolling



"A very casual affair"—that's the way Bob Burns, head tennis coach, describes tennis at Northside. "We play whenever the weather permits, and we play other opponents when convenient." Squads have existed in previous years, but organizational and scheduling problems have prevented students from forming a team. The last organized team was in 1969.

Annual matches are scheduled with Springdale, Little Rock, Fayetteville and Hot Springs. Players start practice in the fall and continue through the spring until tournament play begins. Larry Linson, Ronnie Nicodemus and Danny Williams are players continued from last year, with first-year players Mark Loris and Joe Ulrich. Cathy Basham and Ann Warmack played in mixed doubles with the boys or in girls' matches.

Student Council

Goal: build spirit, the feel of belonging

"Our main objective was to unite students, build spirits and in general make school more fun so the students would like it and feel they belong," stated Lane Barker, first-semester president of the student body. Lane was assisted during her term by Mollie White, vice-president. The climax of the first semester was football homecoming, with all clubs participation in the weeks festivities. The Council sponsored the traditional tea honoring Queen Shelagh O'Neal and her maids. Other activities included open house, the Christmas post office, dances and an early morning cafeteria open to all students.

Joe Wernick was elected second-semester president and Lane Barker, vice-president. Highlight of the winter was basketball homecoming, with the tea for the court, followed by Faculty Follies, Twirp Week and Teacher Appreciation Day.

Activities extended to include PTA program

Buses, Grizzly-grams and license plates kept House members busy this year. Along with the usual trips to out-of-town games and messages of support to the team, the House sold NHS license plates as a money-making project. Under coordination of the House, representatives from different school clubs explained their purpose at a PTA meeting in February. First-semester speaker was Mollie White; recording secretary Becky Myers; roll call secretary, Ann Warmack; treasurer, Mike Steinbock. Second-semester officers were speaker, Lane Barker; recording secretary, Vicki Morgan; roll call secretary Jo Hays; treasurer, Mike Coulson.

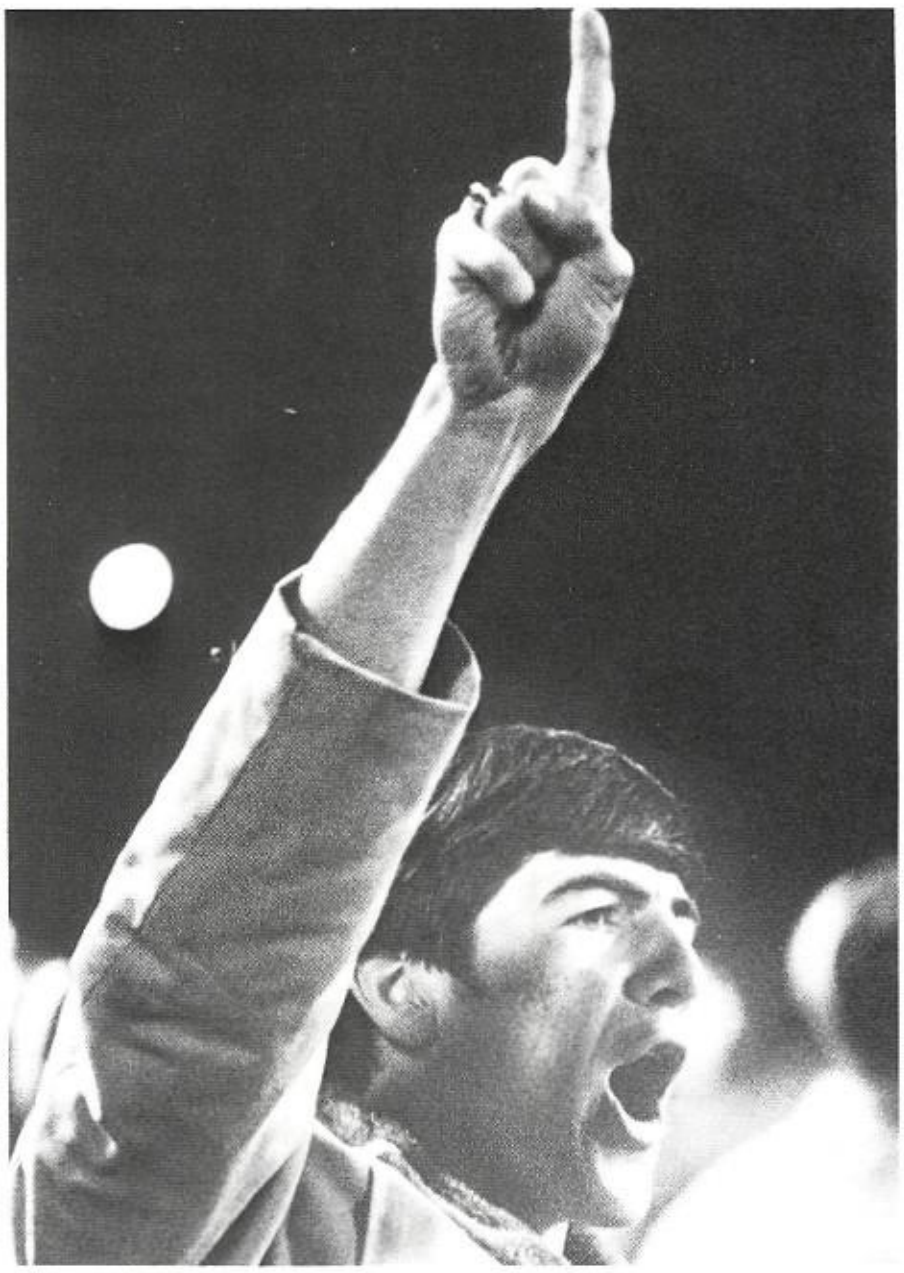
Seniors take the smile way to boost spirit



Grizzly Grins—trademark of the class of 72—were all over the Northside campus before anyone knew what was happening. Smile buttons, smile posters and even smile T shirts multiplied rapidly, boosting spirit as their popularity grew—no doubt inspiring the homecoming theme "Smile You're in Bear Country." Alan Richardson served as president; Ethan Westfall, vice-president; Marilyn Smith, secretary; and Mrs. Mavis Morton, sponsor. Activities, beginning in August, included a workweek, a leaf rake, a calendar sale and a carnation sale for basketball homecoming—all climaxed by the prom May 19.

15 Northside seniors voted to Hall of Fame

Top scholar, all-state quarterback, ace rebounder, biggest Bear booster, best singer—these are the makings of candidates for the annual contest, Hall of Fame. This honor is given to those senior students who are considered to have contributed the most to the name of Northside. This year, 55 seniors were nominated by the student body in school-wide balloting. The Senior Council, who conducts the Hall of Fame procedures, prepared the ballots to be sent out to the teachers for voting. The ballots consisted of the student's grade point, along with a list of clubs, organizations and councils. The teachers may vote for as many as 10 of the nominees, on the basis of the student's qualifications. From these 55 senior students, 15 were chosen as the most outstanding in their class. The results are kept secret until the Bruin arrives.

NCBS starts new contest for yearbook

Miss Black Heritage, a contest sponsored by the newly organized Northside Confederation of Black Students, is similar to the Bruin Beauty contest conducted annually by the Senior Council. Nominations were made by the student body.

Fifteen black senior girls were nominated: Jerlynda Douglas, Carla Gilyard, Linda Gilyard, Patricia Gordon, Wilma Johnson, Barbara Richardson, Carrie Smith, Crystal Sneed, Sandra Sneed, Debra Steward, Debra Thomas, Denise Walker, Mary Williams, Karen Willis and Sharon Willis. Portraits of nominees were sent to a black college fraternity, Kappa Alpha Si, for judging, announcment of the winner to be kept secret until delivery of the Bruin.

Bruin Beauty ~ Stacy Brown

Senior beauty chosen by portrait studio

Beauty is in the eye of the beholder. This year the beholder was Gittings Studio from Neiman-Marcus department store in Dallas, who selected Stacy Brown as Bruin Beauty 1972. At the first of the school year, 60 senior girls were nominated by the student body. The nominees then submitted their school portraits to the Senior Council, who in turn sent the 60 pictures to a beauty and modeling college in Russellville. Seven of the nominees were chosen to be in the final judging. They were Stacy Brown, Jayne Gates, Debbie Gechter, Marion Hawkins, Gloria McClary, Shelagh O'Neal and Michelle Pence. These seven finalists then had portraits made at a local studio so all pictures going to the final judges would be similar. From these, the senior girl judged to be the most beautiful on campus was chosen. Bruin Beauty, one of the highest honors that can be bestowed on a senior girl, dates back to the beginning of the Bruin. Traditionally sponsored by the Senior Council, the winner of Bruin Beauty is kept a secret until the yearbook is distributed in May.

Junior Council

Objective: 'to get the class of '73 together'

"Our main objective is to get the class of '73 together." Thus Mike Hudson, president of the Junior Council, representing the class of '73, began a year of money-making and spirit-boosting projects. These included a carwash, bumper sticker sale, Christmas tree sale, pancake supper and doughnut sale. Vice-president was Margie Howe; secretary, Martha Cravens; sponsor, Mrs. Patricia N. Werner. The annual Junior Variety Show held February 24-26 was entitled "Stars and Stripes Forever."

Newcomers organize for better Bear boosting

Following in the traditional Bear tracks, the Sophomore Council opened the year for the class of '74 with the homecoming floatmaking in which other members of the class participated to "Stop the Rockets." Later, two money-making projects were promoted: selling Christmas candy and plastic covers for the yearbook when delivered at the end of the term. Officers elected in September included president, John Jennings; vice-president, Sherry Curlin; secretary, Betsy Nigh; and treasurer, Laurie England. Sponsored by Bruce Hoffsommer, the council meets in Peabodyland to prove "Grizzly Bears like never before, we're the class of '74!"

People and co-operation make Bruin possible

Northside has come to the end of another year, a year filled with enthusiasm, new looks and new changes. As the time has passed, the members of the Bruin staff, with the help of photographers, have tried to capture those moments that made Northside this year different from past years. The staff wishes to express appreciation to the faculty, administration and other school personnel for their help and cooperation. A special word goes to R. Earl Farnsworth, Clifton Grace, Bill C. Bardrick, Mrs. Dale Bennett, Mrs. Betty Morris, Mrs. Nora Speer, Mrs. Virginia Young, Mrs. Helen Freeman, Mrs. Anna Lee Womble, Mrs. Carl Adams, William N. Shaver III, Clyde Scott, Jerry Klinginsmith and Ronnie Ashley of Northside; to K. J. Austin, W. A. Christian and Dale Bennett of the Henington Publishing Company; and to the Bruin photographers Allen H. Barnett and Henry Barnett. We would like to commend Coach Charles Presley for his dedication in setting the pace for number one Northside by his No. 1 Bears. We would like to express our appreciation in memory of Miss Irene Barnwell, a substitute teacher who did more than substitute. Most of all, we would like to recognize the one person who made this yearbook possible, Miss Hazel Presson, adviser of Northside's publications.

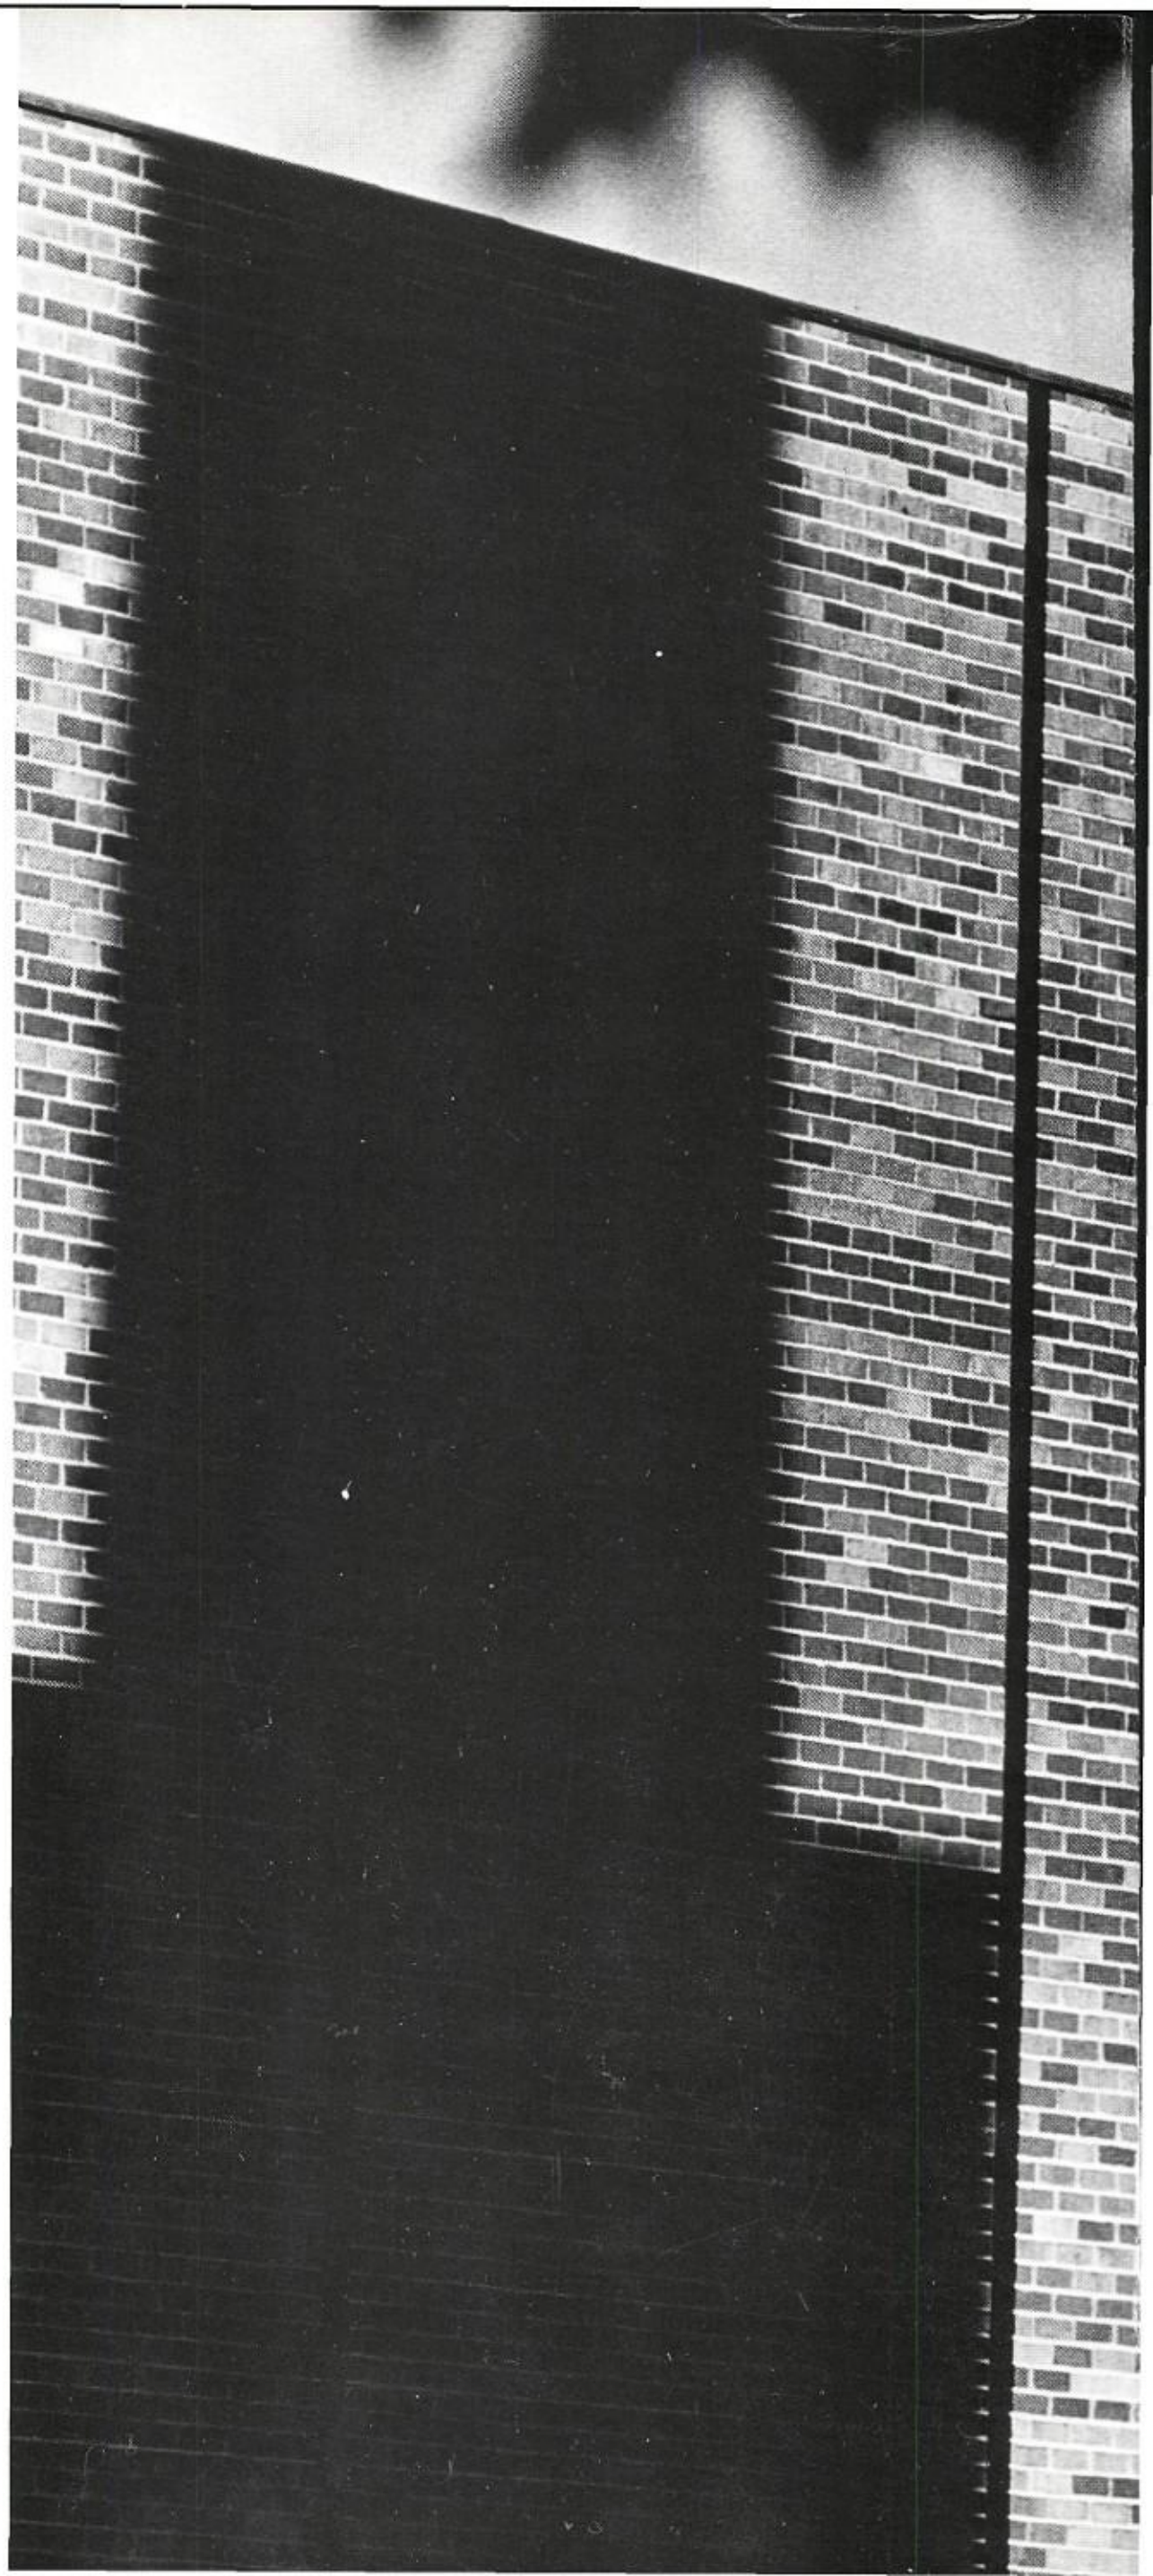
Epilogue


What a year it was! The campus was filled with new and old faces, wondering and anticipating. They came to be heard. The year was marked with a smile, a smile touched with a look of concern for our school and fellow classmates. The concern turned to involvement, trying to make our world a better place to live. The year faded into a time of memories for the seniors, a time of waiting for the juniors and a time of belonging for the sophomores. Another year has come and gone and its lifestyle will ring forever in Northside's halls. Put together the belonging, waiting and remembering and season with spirit. Stir with excitement and it's the perfect combination—the combination of the Number One Grizzlies.
